BENNETT WIELDS BIG STICK IN LONDON

ATHLETICS WIN WORLD BASEBALL SERIES Will Give Preference If Great Britain Agrees To Take Canadian Wheat

WIN OVER ST. LOUIS BY 7 TO 1

Philadelphia in Great Hitting Barrage to Turn Back National League Champions

Dykes and Simmons Hit Home Runs; Earnshaw Holds Cardinals to Five Hits

Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Oct. 8.—Behind the wonderful pitching of big George Earnshaw, Connie Mack's Athletics to-day won their second successive world's baseball championship, crushing the St. Louis Cardinals 7 to 1 in the sixth game. It gave the A's the series four games to two.

The Athletics hammered the offerings of wild Bill Hallahan, their previous conqueror, as well as the pitching of his successors, Sylvester Johnson, Lindsey and Bell with the most sustained and spectacular batting attack of the world's series.

The world's champions made their seven hits count for as many runs as they went on a rampage and quickly settled the issue that had been so hard fought and close up to to-day.

Earnshaw, starting his second successive game, and finishing it this time, overpowered the Cardinals with his baffling delivery. The big right hander shut out the Red Birds for eight innings, yielding their only run in the ninth as he tired, but nevertheless completed one of the greatest of world's series pitching performances.

Lefty Grove was ready to jump in again as a relief man, but Earnshaw, despite a sore right foot, finished and turned in an achievement of pitching twenty-two consecutive scoreless innings in three games. This mark was not far short of the record of Christy Mathewson, who blanked the Athletics three times in 1905.

A GREAT FINISH
It was the climax to a great finish by the Athletics after they had been fought to a standstill in St. Louis, where the Cardinals tied up the series at two all. By pulling out the next game, due to the marvelous mound work of Earnshaw, who pitched sixteen of the last eighteen innings, the Athletics duplicated the victory of the White Sox in 1917.

This was the fifth world's championship for Connie Mack in seven battles with National League forces since 1903.

Although too one-sided to contain many thrills, the sixth and final game was witnessed by a wildly cheering crowd of home town enthusiasts, who gave Earnshaw one of the greatest ovations ever accorded a world's series hero.

The Athletics got to Hallahan for two hits in the first inning and these, coupled with an error by Watkins, gave the American League champions a pair of runs. With one away Dykes was given a walk and scored on Cochrane's hit to right field. Cochrane reached third when Watkins let the ball through him. Cochrane scored on Miller's double to centre field.

FINANCIAL LOSS IN R-101 CRASH

Destroyed British Dirigible and Plant Cost $10,000,000 to Build

London, Oct. 8.—Financial loss involved in the disaster to the R-101 was overshadowed by the loss of human life but when the government turns its eye to its accounts of pounds and shillings it will find it has lost about £2,000,000 (about $10,000,000) in the catastrophe.

The ship itself cost more than £1,000,000 (about $5,000,000) to build. Her gas bags alone cost £50,000 (about $250,000). To this sum must be added in any estimate of loss the cost of all mooring masts and other equipment especially constructed for her and in connection with the Indian trip the cost of establishment of various meteorological and other scientific services.

Holdings of Clients Are All Sold Out In B.C. Bond Crisis

Following the meeting of more than 300 Victoria, Nanaimo and other Island investing clients of the B.C. Bond Corporation, correspondents of Logan and Bryan, at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday evening, and the selling out at yesterday afternoon's market prices of all clients' holdings and collateral on the New York market, investigation into the affairs of the brokerage firm was started to-day by F. E. Winslow, manager of the Royal Trust Company, aided by James K. Braithwaite and H. Cumberbatch, as a committee acting for involved clients.

All clients in the Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg markets were sold out at the opening of those markets to-day. Pending the return from Saskatchewan of Attorney-General Pooley, Deputy Attorney-General Oscar Bass to-day took action so that the department could do everything possible to safeguard the interests of the public. H. G. Garrett, registrar of companies, began an investigation for the department.

Officers of the company said it was impossible to give any estimate of the total sum involved. The firm has

POLICE CHIEF IS KILLED IN GUN-BATTLE

SEVERE QUAKE IS FELT IN JUGOSLAVIA

Sarajevo, Yugoslavia, Oct. 8.—Four severe earthquake shocks, each lasting forty seconds, were experienced here yesterday evening. There was no damage.

Washington, Oct. 8.—An earthquake centred about 8,000 miles from Washington was recorded to-day on the Georgetown University seismograph. The disturbance began at 5:40 a.m. eastern standard time, with maximum intensity recorded at 6:20 a.m.

A severe earthquake was recorded on the seismograph of the Gonzales Mill Observatory commencing at 2:48 o'clock this morning. It was announced by Y. Napier Denison, superintendent. The disturbance was estimated to have had its centre approximately 5,600 miles away, probably in Southern Italy. The record of the quake continued for three hours.

BUTTER ABOARD NIAGARA WILL NOT BE TAXED

Large Shipment Will Reach Here To-morrow and So Avoid Government Tariff

A shipment of 33,000 boxes of New Zealand butter for Victoria and Vancouver, due here aboard the Canadian-Australian liner Niagara, will reach its destination in time to escape the new tariff imposed on butter, which goes into effect on October 12.

The Niagara will reach William Head to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock from Australia and New Zealand, and after discharging her local consignment at Vancouver will proceed to Victoria. The ship is expected to arrive there early Friday morning. The Niagara has been pressing forward at full speed all the way from Sydney and is docking here about eighteen hours ahead of time. By the time the new duty goes into effect the butter will be safely stored in warehouses of Victoria and Vancouver.

A cable to-day from New Zealand stated that present prices of New Zealand butter on the London market is the lowest since 1914, this proving a severe blow to the dairy industry in the southern dominion. Local butter dealers explain the low London prices to the reduced purchasing power of the nation are due to existing economic conditions rather than to any over-production. Canadian butter stocks are reported fairly in Eastern Canada but not so heavy as usual in the west. The new duties of eight cents a pound preferential tariff, twelve cents intermediate and fourteen cents general, is expected to-day in a gun fight with three men suspected of robbing the post office at Coker Creek, Tenn.

L. H. TWEEDIE DISAPPEARS FROM BOAT

Manager of Home Oil Distributors Here Missing Since Monday Night

Police Investigate Disappearance; Clothes and Grip Found on Ship

Following his disappearance from a C.P.R. steamer between Victoria and Vancouver, Monday night, fear was expressed to-day for the safety of Louis H. Tweedie, manager of the Home Oil Distributing Company here.

Provincial Police are investigating Mr. Tweedie's disappearance. It was stated this morning no trace of him had been found since he boarded the boat here Monday night and went to his stateroom.

Tuesday morning after the steamer, the Princess Joan, arrived in Vancouver, Mr. Tweedie failed to leave the ship, it is believed, and when a steward went to the stateroom, his clothes and grip were found. The door was not locked, police were told.

Mr. Tweedie, who resided at the Pacific Club, Fort Street, was making an ordinary business trip to Vancouver, it is understood.

Subsequent search by the police failed to reveal any trace of the missing man, although investigation is being continued.

Mr. Tweedie, a well-known sportsman in this city and prominent in sport circles through a keen interest in ice hockey, has a wide circle of friends here.

Mr. Tweedie's wife and two children are reported to be in Vancouver.

BODIES OF AIR VICTIMS IN LONDON

Guards Pace Before Coffins Now Resting in Shadow of Westminster Abbey

London, Oct. 8.—All England entered to-day upon a period of mourning which will have its official close when the bodies of the R-101 victims are taken to Cardington for burial after a public memorial at St. Paul's Cathedral on Friday.

All day guards paced silently to and fro before the rows of coffins in the courtyard under the shadow of Westminster Abbey. It was but a brief moment before noon when the dead of the wrecked dirigible were brought home from the scene of their fate.

Through the chill hours of a stormy morning the victims were taken from the destroyer Tempest at Dover, en-trained for London well after 3 o'clock and borne from Victoria Station to their temporary resting place.

Many persons came during the day to view the memorable sight, while men passed before the mortuary laid their hats in homage to the dead within.

INQUEST ADJOURNED
Shortly before noon formalities connected with the disaster were resumed when Coroner Ingleby Odde of Westminster began his inquest. The proceedings were purely preliminary, no identification evidence being taken.

The coroner said he would adjourn the inquiry until completion of the report on a tribunal of investigation which is to be put into action soon by the Air Ministry. The provisional adjournment was until November 18. (Concluded on Page 3)

Principle of Empire Trade Must Either Be Approved or Rejected, Declares Canada's Prime Minister in Outlining Before Imperial Conference Basis of Proposals to Protect Canadian Industries; Preference Offered With Certain Reservations; Suggested Conference Reassemble in Ottawa Early Next Year.

By GEORGE HAMBLETON, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent
London, Oct. 8.—Definitely and unequivocally, Premier R. B. Bennett of Canada to-day laid his plan for reciprocal Empire trade preferences before the Imperial Conference. He spoke in words the purport of which could not be doubted. The principle of Empire preference, he declared, must be either approved or rejected.

"I put the question definitely to you," he exclaimed, "and definitely it should be answered. There is no room here for compromise. There is no possibility of avoiding the issue. This is a time for plain speaking and I speak plainly when I say the day is now at hand when the peoples of the Empire must decide for once and all whether our welfare lies in closer economic union or whether it does not. Delay is hazardous and further discussion of the principle is surely unnecessary. The time for action has come."

Premier Bennett was frank in saying the primary concern of Canada was to sell, profitably, her wheat. "This market," he declared, "we want, and for it we are willing to pay by giving in the Canadian market preference for British goods."

RECIPROCAL PREFERENCE

He then stated his offer in these terms: "I offer to the Mother Country and to all other parts of the Empire a preference in the Canadian market in exchange for like preferences in theirs, based upon the addition of a ten per cent increase in the prevailing general tariffs, or upon tariffs yet to be created."

In the universal acceptance of this, and in like proposals and acceptances by all other parts of the Empire, we attain the ideal of Empire preference."

NOT FREE TRADE STEP
Premier Bennett added that the rate mentioned could not be uniformly applied. The basis of the proposals was adequate protection to industries now existent or yet to be established. "By creating a preference we secure a certain flexibility in the preferential tariff," he said. Nor could the proposed offer be regarded as a step towards Empire free trade.

Empire free trade, in the opinion of the Canadian delegation, was neither desirable nor possible, Premier Bennett said. "It would defeat the very purpose we are striving to achieve. Again it was conceivable that the preferential rate should be lower in the case of raw products, or where the Empire supply did not meet the Empire demand. On the other hand, the preference might be increased beyond ten per cent where that rate, in relation to the main tariff, was inadequate to afford Empire goods an appreciable advantage over those of foreign countries."

Premier Bennett submitted further that Empire ocean transport should be regarded as the rightful carrier of Empire goods. "And I was no reason why by creating additional preferences on goods as carried between Empire ports, that great service should not profitably be used," he added.

CONFERENCE AT OTTAWA
The Canadian Prime Minister finally proposed that the conference reassemble in Ottawa early next year, as guests of the Canadian people, and that in the interval an expert committee should study the plan and report.

By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

PREMIER'S SPEECH
London, Oct. 8.—Submitting Empire preferences as the best method of increasing Empire trade, Premier R. B. Bennett of Canada to-day addressed the Imperial Conference as follows:

"Before offering this conference a plan which, once effective, will in my opinion make for greater prosperity in all parts of the Empire, I shall briefly state the fiscal policy of the Canadian administration of which I am the head."

The Conservative Party of Canada believes in and employs the principle of protection of the home producer of agricultural and fabricated products from harmful interference by world competitors, but it is not part of our policy to exclude from our markets foreign goods so long as their importation does not threaten a reduction in the high standard of living which our citizens enjoy.

DECLARED POLICY
"On the other hand it is our declared policy to provide for the consumer a cheap market by stimulating the growth of competing domestic industry." (Concluded on Page 2)

BENNETT SPEAKS ONLY FOR HIS PARTY, SAYS KING

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Oct. 8.—"It should be clearly understood that in making proposals for increasing the tariff, Premier R. B. Bennett is speaking for the Conservative Party only and not for the people of Canada as a whole," said Mr. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the opposition, when informed of the substance of Premier Bennett's speech at the Imperial Conference to-day. He declined to make further comment.

POLICE ARE IN CONTROL AT BOSTON

Rowdies Took Advantage of Privileges Extended to American Legionnaires

Boston, Mass., Oct. 8.—Boston and American Legion police controlled the downtown streets to-day after several hours of disorder by mobs of hoodlums.

Overturned automobiles, the ashes of a score of bonfires that had been built in downtown thoroughfares and on Boston common, and here and there a battered head marked the passing of the rowdies, who took advantage of the privilege extended the Legionnaires on a night of frivolity after the annual parade in connection with the national convention. Exhaustion was probably the greatest contribution factor toward curbing the ruffians.

At one time, shortly before midnight, it seemed as if a mob of hoodlums might gain the proportions of a riot. Dennis J. Lorden, heading a detail of Federal agents, had arrested four local men for peddling liquor in the square. As he started marching his men away the crowd, composed mostly of the toughs who ranged in age from fourteen to twenty, moved on him.

FOUGHT DRY AGENTS

Fists began to fly and agents had their backs to the wall when a squad of Boston police forced their way through the crowd to rescue them. Legion police held a lane open while the agents and their prisoners were brought to the comparative safety of a nearby street.

Those four were the only arrests during the sporadic outbreaks that marked the post-parade celebration. Police who attempted to roundup the detached mobs or hoodlums were hindered in making arrests by the crowds that milled through the streets all night.

age firm of any size in the province which had not been compelled by the Attorney-General to register and come under the provisions of that act, at least until the last few days. He said that if the firm had been registered immediately under the act as other stockbrokers were last spring, and the provisions of the act had thus been put into operation during the last months, the present trouble might have been averted and hundreds of men, women and girls who are now in financial difficulties would have been saved.

"Evidently there is something wrong in the state of Denmark, someone has failed and I would like to know why," he said.

In reply to questions, Mr. Fraser said that the margins of the clients who were sold out yesterday afternoon were practically all up to full requirements. "Has the adverse position arisen out of the speculation of the company or the clients?" Mr. E. Jackson, K.C., asked.

"Out of both," Mr. Fraser replied.

Mr. Boorman added that it was through the depreciation of the firm's securities.

Mr. Jackson asked whether separate accounts were carried in New York for the clients' holdings and for the company's holdings.

Mr. Fraser replied that he was not familiar with that detail, and asked Mr. Boorman.

"It has been the custom of the company to run all in one account," Mr. Boorman replied.

He said that the firm had been carrying a credit of $396,000 in New York.

"Does it not follow you must have been using other money in these securities? I want to know if there was any misuse of customers' money in your private speculations," Mr. Jackson said.

"The margin of the customers is in good standing and isn't part or all of the deficit not through the directors?"

"Our losses have been caused to us by underwriting various issues underwritten by us for distribution," Mr. Fraser said.

The spokesman for the Nanaimo group of clients wanted to know why the clients who were all paid up in their margin should now be sold out and have to bear the losses the company and directors had incurred through their investments in blocks of stocks which they had bought to sell or distribute at higher prices and for the benefit of the company and its directors or shareholders and not at all for the clients. He said he seemed that the clients had been sold out, but when the prices of securities went down the blocks of stocks of the firm held were not liquidated and on these the big losses had been incurred.

In reply to questions from Mr. Jackson, Mr. Fraser said that the liability of the directors was limited. He said the directors were anxious to save the company and had certain moneys which they could bring into the firm, provided no action was instituted by any client. He also read from Barron's Weekly an article which told how the bankers had now embarked on a policy of forcing liquidation and this had affected adversely the securities the firm held on its own account.

Mr. Boorman said that it was his intention to have the firm from now on handle only the very highest grade securities.

Titus L. Swan, who acted as chairman of the meeting, urged that the meeting should formulate some plan of action as the discussion was dragging on towards 11 o'clock. The investigating committee under Mr. Winlow was then formed.

It was then formed.

with the understanding that if the work of the statutory tribunal was not then completed there would be a still further delay in the inquiry.

It was understood that the members of the government's court of inquiry would not be named until a new secretary for air had been appointed to replace Lord Thomson, who died in the destruction of the R-101 in France, early Sunday. It was considered probable that the appointment of a new Air Minister would be made in a few days.

The public will not be admitted to view the remains of the victims of the dirigible disaster until Friday, when they will lie in state in ancient Westminster Hall, part of the old Palace of Westminster, which now is used to house parliament. Arrangements are being made for great crowds to pass their bier, but it is expected that many thousands will be turned away, unable to enter the room.

A memorial service will be held Friday at St. Paul's Cathedral, with the Prince of Wales representing the King, and members of the government present. Some of the most notable people in the land and the diplomatic corps will pay final tribute to the victims here.

Interment will take place in a single grave, to be marked with an appropriate monument at Cardington.

13 Brokers Arraigned
In Toronto To-day For Defrauding Investors

Toronto, Oct. 8.—Thirteen alleged brokers appeared before Mr. Justice Jeffrey in the Assizes to-day for arraignment on charges of conspiracy to defraud the public to affect the price of stocks, and gambling in stocks.

They were: Donald Stewart, Peter, Edgar G. McLean and Austin Russell, all of the firm of D. S. Paterson and Company; James J. Heppleston, W. T. Shutt and William Wray, of the firm of Arthur R. Moynsey and Company; Malcolm Stobie, James J. Forlong and Gordon Draper, of the firm of Stobie-Forlong and Company; William J. Smart and Maurice Young, of the firm of L. Gibson and Company; I. W. C. Solloway, president of the Solloway, Mills and Company; and Harvey Mills, vice-president of the same company.

William J. Smart and Maurice E. Young were the first arraigned. R. H. Greer, K.C., counsel for Young, objected to the drawing of the indictment and made application for further particulars. No specific charges were set out, he said.

His Lordship said he would reserve his decision on Mr. Greer's application until Thursday morning. Accused reserved their appeal and bail was continued.

I. W. C. Solloway and Harvey Mills were the next arraigned, and were represented by Arthur G. Clough, K.C., who also asked for further particulars and leave to reserve their pleas.

WANT MORE INFORMATION

That the charges of conspiracy to defraud the public and affect the price of stocks, as set forth in the indictment, did not furnish the sufficient particulars for the defence, was the general contention advanced by the various counsel representing the thirteen Toronto brokers arraigned before Justice Jeffrey in Criminal Assize Court.

MAIL CONTINUED

The first two who appeared were William J. Smart and Maurice Young, representing the latter, R. H. Greer, K.C., immediately objected after the indictment had been read, and made an application for further particulars. He contended that no specific charges were set out. Mr. Greer said his demand for further particulars was made because counsel for the defendants, in consultation with accountants who were likewise acting for the defence, felt that it was impossible for the accountants to analyze the details set out in the paragraph of the particulars served without the addition of the particulars. He observed, it was the adoption of counsel and a fair trial could not be had.

Special Crown Prosecutor W. N. Tiller, K.C., stated that exhibits affecting the particular dates had been filed.

His Lordship announced that he would reserve his decision regarding Mr. Greer's application until Thursday morning. Accused reserved their plea and bail was continued.

"OLD TORY BELIEF"

"Another characteristic of the proposal that impresses me is that it is founded in the old Tory beliefs that there is intrinsic merit in the mere height of a tariff. Mr. Bennett's whole proposal is based on increases in existing tariffs and in the creation of tariffs where there are none. It means a pronounced increase in the cost of living and the cost of production in every part of the Empire.

"It also implies direct bargains between individual members of the Empire and the Mother Country. There has been a pronounced public opinion against such bargains on the ground that a preference granted to one dominion would necessitate discrimination against another. This has been claimed would be disruptive of friendly relations within the Empire."

MR. BENNETT'S BARGAIN

WHAT HE LAID DOWN DURING THE election campaign as the Conservative party's policy for the development of imperial trade, particularly as the basis of commercial relations with the United Kingdom, Hon. R. B. Bennett repeated this morning at a plenary session of the Imperial Conference. It is a policy of bargaining—preference for preference. But it can be interpreted as nothing more or less than notice to Great Britain that, unless she changes her own policy, from now on that country and this Dominion will be doing less business with one another. In this relation special significance lies in the statement of Premier MacDonald yesterday, that if Great Britain should set out upon "a new system of trade protection of any kind we must apply it to benefit ourselves, not to quixotically look after every other interest except our own." In other words, if Mr. Bennett's policy is to be one of "Canada first," Mr. MacDonald's policy is to be one of "Great Britain first."

Mr. Bennett made it quite clear to the Conference that the primary concern of Canada was to sell her wheat profitably, that she wanted the British market in which to make the sale, "and for it we are willing to pay by giving in the Canadian market preference for British goods." This is the bargain the Canadian Prime Minister virtually demands must be driven—and he is trying to make out that its operation would be mutually beneficial. The important point to be remembered at the outset is that any British government which laid down as the cornerstone of its fiscal policy a tax on foreign wheat—which means a preference for empire wheat—or any other form of foodstuffs, would last no longer than it would take to hold an election to turn it out. For no matter how sentiment in Britain may be changing towards protection where certain key industries are involved, she is as rigidly opposed to taxing food now as she was when Joseph Chamberlain launched his tariff reform crusade at the beginning of the century. And although only a handful of empire products, some of them canned goods, were singled out for preference by the Baldwin government in 1923, the electorate dealt with that administration as it did with the Balfour administration for similar reasons in 1906.

This brings us to the vital question. Suppose Great Britain says to Mr. Bennett: "We will not tax Argentine, Russian, or any other foreign wheat just to get a preference for our manufactured goods in Canada." What will be the result? Canada will have no tariff against British goods, treating them in precisely the same way that she will treat her imports from foreign countries. Britain will act similarly as far as wheat is concerned. She will buy from Argentina, Russia and Australia. What, then, will be the fate of our grain-growing industry—one of the cornerstones of our whole economic system—which needs the British market of 50,000,000 people more urgently than Britain needs the Canadian market of 10,000,000 people? We recently had a bitter experience in regard to the marketing of our wheat and all Canada now is suffering in consequence. But in the longer sense this tit-for-tat policy is likely to be bad for empire solidarity. It will make for discord between the various Dominions, since it is bound to produce trade reprisals and retaliation and public resentment. This, in fact, is the most ominous aspect of the whole business.

Mr. Mackenzie King's way was much better for all concerned. He proposed to give Britain's products more preference in Canada's markets so that she might sell to us goods which we now buy in large quantities from foreign countries. He did not demand as the price of this concession that she tax her people's food; he felt that his gesture of friendly interest would create a favorable feeling towards Canadian goods in the Old Country. This, as a matter of record, was the sequel to the voluntary preference given by Canada in other years, when our exports to Britain rapidly increased. In 1921 to 1929 Great Britain bought from this country goods—mainly foodstuffs—to the value of approximately $3,542,000,000, and sold to Canada goods of the approximate value of $1,480,000,000, or a balance in this country's favor of about $2,062,000,000. In other words, something like one-fourth of Canada's annual trade with the whole world is done with Great Britain. We are now in grave danger of spoiling that picture.

CANADIAN NEWSPRINT

CANADA HAS LED THE WORLD AS A producer of newsprint now for four years. Her chief competitor is the United States, and our Dominion's superiority has been steadily growing during the four years. In 1926, the output of Canadian newsprint was 3,764,000,000 pounds, as against 3,374,000,000 pounds in the United States. Last year, Canadian production was 5,457,000,000 pounds, compared with 2,784,552,000 pounds in the United States. Third position is held by the United Kingdom and fourth by Germany. Production of newsprint in the United Kingdom has risen from 1,124,000,000 pounds in 1926 to 1,480,000,000 pounds in 1929. In Germany, the output in 1926 was 998,000,000 pounds, while last year it was 1,246,000,000 pounds.

While Canada easily leads the world as a producer of newsprint, as an exporter of that article she ships ten times as much as her nearest competitor. Last year the export of newsprint from the Dominion was 5,021,266,000 pounds. The next largest export came from Germany, which shipped 508,671,000 pounds. Canada led the world as an exporter of newsprint as far back as 1913, but in that year her superiority was only moderate, or 513,322,000 pounds, while Norway exported 217,014,000 pounds and the United Kingdom 210,305,000 pounds. In the interval, while the export of newsprint from Canada has multiplied almost ten times, that of Norway has advanced only to 378,420,000 pounds, and that of the United Kingdom to 215,345,000 pounds. Last year this country's exports of newsprint were greater than those of the rest of the world combined.

The Dominion's great advance as a newsprint producer and exporter since the opening of the present century has been based upon the expansion of her wood pulp industry. Export of wood pulp during the fiscal year 1890 was valued at only $166,000 but in 1900 it had reached $1,816,000. In 1920, the export of wood pulp was 1,538,958,000 pounds, with a value of $41,383,000. In 1930, the quantity exported was 1,735,919,000 pounds, and the value $44,914,000. The very small increase in the export of wood pulp from Canada in the decade from 1920 to 1930, is due to the fact that year by year larger quantities of wood pulp have been used in the Canadian paper industry in the manufacture of newsprint and other forms of paper; and, consequently, the product is being exported in a manufactured instead of in a semi-manufactured state.

The pulp and paper industry, incidentally, now leads all other Canadian manufactures by a considerable margin.

"WE'LL TAKE THE HIGH ROAD"

MR. BENNETT TOLD THE IMPERIAL Conference to-day that the policy of his government as expressed in recent tariff legislation was to protect industry without involving price increases to the consumers, and that in this "we are on the high road to success."

Just what does the Canadian Prime Minister mean by the "high road to success"? Even before he left Canada the price of butter had gone up, while glass had more than doubled in price. In Victoria to-day glass which cost eighty cents before the tariff increases is now $1.90. Merchants tell us that many articles which figured in this tariff boost ordered by them since the recent session of Parliament will be considerably increased in price as a direct result of that legislation.

All this, of course, is inevitable. It is merely another chapter in an old, old story, written into the records of every country which has adopted the policy of high tariff protection. How could it be otherwise? The very purpose of the policy is to restrict competition and guarantee higher profits for those whose goods are protected in this way. Otherwise it would be ineffective.

With competition restricted, the law of supply and demand pursues its course as inexorably and naturally as the process of the sun, and the consumer pays, not only in direct price increases, but often indirectly through the lowering of the quality of the goods. And very often the wage earners in the protected industries suffer in wage decreases. A perfect example of this was presented by the textile industry in the New England states a few years ago. The tariff increases raised the prices of clothing to the consumers, who necessarily reduced their purchases, and the mills thereupon reduced wages. Then followed strikes and turmoil.

In any case, Mr. Bennett is giving us a clear enough demonstration of the fallacy of a high tariff as far as the protection of the consumers is concerned, and those who supported him in the belief—which he seems to have sincerely, if mistakenly, held—that it is possible to raise customs duties to the sky and not increase prices to the general public, are in for a costly disillusionment. In the light of this experience, the argument for tariff protection in the future will have to stand on one leg instead of two, namely, that it is in the best interests of a country that its people should pay more for what they consume, regardless of the size of their pocket-books.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

HAIG
 Sir Harry Perry Robinson, K.C., in The Nineteenth Century, London

Every writer who praises Haig seems to think it necessary to preface his eulogium with the statement that he was not a genius. One wonders... Curiously enough, many of those who deny genius to Haig concede it readily to Foch, whose brain, it is supposed, conceived the plan of those concerted attacks, which in the latter half of 1918 brought victory with such unexpected—such almost incredible—swiftness. But is it essential features the plan was more Haig's than Foch's, that whatever of vision or "genius" there was in it was contributed by the British commander's amendments to Foch's original and comparatively crude proposals? General Pershing, with characteristic soldierly directness, has stated bluntly that Haig was "the outstanding figure of the World War," and if anybody was in a position to judge it should have been he. But it is curious that it should have been left to one who was not an Englishman to come out with the truth.

AUSTRALIA FACES THE MUSIC
 The Manchester Guardian

The Australian Cabinet has lost no time in framing legislation to give effect to Sir Otto Niemeyer's stern advice. The country will shortly be asked to approve, among other proposed measures, a cut all round in salaries and wages, a lowering of the bank interest rate, and a tax on the interest from bonds and debentures. At the same time a rigid economy in national expenditure is promised. By these and by no other means can the Commonwealth hope to extricate herself from the very awkward financial position into which she has run. The programme compels a lowering of the standard of living and of social services in which Australia has taken pride. Her workpeople have been the envy of other nations; and her social reforms, begun under the first Labor Government to hold office in the English-speaking world, have been an example to other democracies. But it has long been clear that in the face of prevailing world conditions the policy of splendid isolation in finance could not be continued, and that the Commonwealth must cut her coat to suit her cloth. Fortunately Sir Otto Niemeyer's blunt exposure of the artificiality of the present position, delivered with a highly skilled knowledge of the conditions he was handling, has for the most part been received without resentment and even with relief. The programme now being framed is the fruit of it. The next step will be to ensure that a sacrifice which the country as a whole seems pluckily ready to make shall be equally borne. That will be no easy matter, and fuller details of the policy which aims at it will be awaited with interest. If it be wisely conceived and generally accepted, the Commonwealth's setback should be no more than temporary.

Loose Ends

A column of melancholy—super-induced by the departure of old Bill Sykes—the coming down of the autumn—the sale of Mr. Padbury's beer press—his unsatisfactory quality of Mr. Beak's beer.

By H. B. W.

IF YOU CAN keep cheerful these days you must have a lively imagination, or better still, none at all. Winter, downright, honest-to-goodness winter one can endure, for it is what one expects and, besides, it means that spring is not far off. But these last days of autumn—these days that bring such a lingering death to the tattered remnant of summer—ah, they are the melancholy days. They are the days which make a man realize that another year is almost over, that there is one less spring and one less summer in store for him.

OUT OUR way the feel of late autumn lies heavy upon us. The fat, green acorns are tumbling down the roof now with the crack of a pistol shot, which is rather alarming in the middle of the night. (George Padbury's two red-headed, freckle-faced snubling boys will be over presently with a sack apiece to pick them up, to be fed to the pigs, according to a custom which has prevailed in the Padbury family down in old Devon for a thousand years and more). The acorns are tumbling now, too, and on the rocks where the soil is thin, they are already half bare. Presently will commence the endless job of gathering up the crackly leaves and ploughing them into next year's vegetable garden. On the little pond, the leaves lie thick upon the water, like diamond little ships, blown hither and thither by the wind and carrying with them the memories of the summer. A single water lily is left from all the blooms of September, and it looks as if it would be glad to go.

EVEN THE goldfish are getting restless and will soon follow the frogs (Mr. McGregor's, with two g's, please) into the mud. Old Bill Sykes, the most ancient of the tribe, whom we have had for uncounted years, looked up glumly from beneath a water lily pad at me this afternoon and said sorrowfully, "Well, I guess I won't see you again till the spring, eh? Another day or two of this dull weather and I'm off. It's so nice and snug down below in the mud. The turtles went long ago and I guess they knowed it. For they're over 100 years old. Sorry you can't come too, but you're not made for it, you know, poor fellow. So long and—well, Merry Christmas, old chap." And with that he gave me a parting flip of his long, luxuriant Chinese tail and slowly disappeared into the depths of the pond. I shall expect to see him about next spring, if the spring is early.

AND WHAT a scene of misery is a garden at this season! I can imagine nothing more mournful than my last purple asters, my first yellow chrysanthemums, my Michaelmas daisies and those great bronze flowers (whose name I never can remember) all bent over under the weight of the rain, and looking as if they wanted to be cut down to get it over with as soon as possible. Now the cotoneasters, the berberis, the hollies, the pyracantha, and the other winter shrubs, having been ignored all summer, come into their own at last. Their jolly red berries seem to contain a little of the sunshine of summer still, and they will hold it until the snowdrops and the daffodils arrive. There are scarlet little apples on the Japanese crab, too, but they are as bitter as the melancholy of this season and will soon go the way of all apples.

THERE USED to be some consolation for us in this season, something to cheer us up in a good old way. To be exact, George Padbury used to make cider at this season. But unless you have tasted George Padbury's cider, I dare say that sounds rather flat and uninteresting. You cannot be expected to understand that cider, like acorns, has been a tradition on, nay, an art, among the Padburys down in Devon since long before the Conquest. Down in Devon George Padbury used to work in the fields on a diet of cider and bread and cheese, and a good man, he says, can drink a couple of gallons a day without even feeling merry, that is, when he is working.

SO WHEN Mr. Padbury landed out here in Canada a few years ago he invested his last dollar in a cider press and staggered the neighborhood with his cider. The Padburys, indeed, achieved a popularity that was quite astounding, and on a Sunday morning one of their historic occasions became observed up at the Puddlebury end of the spinster lady down the road (whom he has secretly adored for years) an old cat, and was forced by Mrs. Whiffleton to apologize ignominiously next day, which, of course, made it necessary for him to cheat himself up at the Puddlebury all over again with a specially large glass.

THERE USED to be this measure of cheer out our way in October, but there is no more. Mr. Padbury found that his popularity was becoming more than he could bear, for his house of a Sunday morning was not his own. This summer he sold his cider press and it has been taken far away out of the district. This will be hard on the Padburys, who have lived on cider so long, and it will be hard on the rest of us. There will be no more Devonshire cider, no more of that exquisite, sparkling, amber-colored fluid which seemed to hold the flavor of summer long after summer had been come a memory. And Mr. Beak's beer, which he makes in two weeks by a secret process, is a poor substitute, even if it is strong enough to explode periodically in Mr. Beak's cellar, shaking the Beak house to its foundations.

WELL, I HAD intended to write a column to-day about something or other, but the melancholy of this first foretaste of winter has been too much for me. The rain driving down in the valley below my window, the haze hanging heavy on the Scotch Hills, the battered flowers and the sale of Mr. Padbury's ciderpress are enough to ruin any column. And even if the sun does shine again by the time this is printed, even if the late flowers revive, even if Old Bill Sykes drops a little while, and Mr. Beak's beer turns out better than usual, still to-day there is a touch of mortality about everything that makes one think of the winter, of cold snaps and the Legislature's next session.

PIONEERS' TROOP

STARTS TOY SHOP

Will Gladden Hearts of Needy
 Kiddies at Christmas Time
 With Gifts

The Canadian Pioneers Troop, formed here recently has been given glowing support by Dean C. S. Quinton addressed the troop at a recent meeting, congratulating it on the work contemplated.

At present the boys are engaged in promoting a Christmas Toy Shop for the needy children of the Island. Cast-off toys, dolls, books and other articles will be collected, fixed and distributed to bring happiness at Christmas time. Children who have any old toys they do not want are asked to phone 6701 and a pioneer will call for the donation. The toy shop is on Quadra Street and is open to inspection by the public.

There are a few vacancies still in the Pioneers' Troop, which has a capacity of forty boys. The headquarters are on Quadra Street, directly opposite the new cathedral, and boys wishing to join may call on any evening between 7:30 and 9 o'clock. Uniforms are supplied free after tests are completed and there are no fees for joining.

THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN CANADA

To the Editor:—The above name was one of the first items of business in the general council of the United Church of Canada at its recent meeting in London, Ont., and the finding of that council was at once sent out by Canadian Press, all over Canada, as follows:

"That in view of recent correspondence with the church of the non-concurring congregations of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, we ask the committee on law and legislation to defer action in the courts until further instructions; that we continue negotiations looking towards a settlement of the matters in dispute between the two churches, and that in the meantime care be taken to guard our rights in respect to the continuity of the church now forming the United Church of Canada, and the use of the name, 'The Presbyterian Church in Canada.'"

On the above finding, so widely published, may I note:
 1. The name of the Presbyterian Church in Canada is entirely her own affair, and she has not asked opinion, judgment or advice of any on the question. Churches best fulfill their purpose by attending to their own work.
 2. The council resolved "to continue negotiations." In the matters referred to there are no "negotiations" to continue. Whatever correspondence there may have been by individuals, the Presbyterian Church in Canada has had no "negotiations" as to her name.

Further, her last general assembly definitely rejected a motion: "That a committee be appointed to confer with the United Church on the matters at issue between the churches."
 That motion was not intended to "negotiate," but simply to point out some special wrongs. But the assembly would not have any conference on these questions. For this church her status and name are fixed.

3. The council resolved "that in the meantime care be taken to guard its rights in respect to the continuity of the church" and the use of the name, "The Presbyterian Church in Canada."

In these matters the United Church of Canada has no rights to guard. As Lord Haldane said in giving judgment in the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, in 1904, in the Scottish Free Church case, "The identity of a religious community, described as a church, must consist in the unity of its doctrine." And that church remained as before. The Free Church of Scotland.

The late Eugene Lafleur, K.C., one of Canada's foremost legal authorities, said: "Within the Presbyterian Church there is no power given to the church courts, or to the highest of the church courts, the General Assembly, to put an end to the church. It is a power for the maintenance of the Presbyterian Church, and its preservation, but not for its annihilation."
 In 1925 some attempted to end the Presbyterian Church in Canada, and failed. That church maintained her doctrine or religious belief, her identity and continuity, and she still remains "The Presbyterian Church in Canada."

4. The council asks its "committee on law and legislation to defer action in the courts until further instructions."
 I do not know the most fitting name for the above. But I do know that the United Church seldom "defers action in the courts" when there is a chance of success. I know that recently that church, at great cost, carried "action in the courts" to the Privy Council, and the highest of the Empire, and lost there its action, with costs.

I know that for five years the United Church has protested against the Presbyterian Church in Canada using this her rightful name, but has never attempted to prevent such use by "action in the courts."
 And I know that no "court" on earth can take from the Presbyterian Church in Canada her Presbyterian principles, her doctrine, her identity, or her name, and the United Church Council knows it too.

MUSICAL COMEDY

WILL BE GIVEN

A rare treat is in store for lovers of musical comedy next Wednesday evening, October 15, when the "Garden of the Shah" will be presented in the Memorial Hall at 8 o'clock by the members of St. Paul's choir and other young people of Nanaimo.

It is a colorful, tuneful and amusing play with a truly Oriental atmosphere about it. Rarely has an amateur production been so beautifully staged and so well presented.
 Miss Dorothy Crawford, who takes the leading part, is a gold medalist of the Upper Island Festival, and Capt. Jack Reynolds, who is largely responsible for the production, takes the screamingly funny part of the Ethiopian. The music is under the direction of Joseph Hinton. Throughout the performance a note of hilarious comedy is preserved, while the dances and choruses are beautiful. The principals are very ably supported in the ensemble numbers by a perfectly trained chorus, which very much adds to the success of the production.
 Members of St. Paul's choir lost all their robes, music, etc., in the fire which destroyed the church buildings, and this opera is being presented for the purpose of creating a fund for the members to re-establish themselves.

Tickets are on sale at the Memorial Hall and from members of the Cathedral A.Y.P.A. who are sponsoring the entertainment.

HAPPY VALLEY

A harvest thanksgiving service will be held at the Reformed Episcopal Church on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. A. de B. Owen will preach.

On Tuesday evening, October 14, a harvest supper will be held in the Mission Hall, when there will be games, contests and a short program. Members of the Ladies' Aid will have charge of home cooking and candy stalls. An invitation is extended to all residents in the district. A silver collection will be taken.

Gifts of flowers, fruit and vegetables for church decoration may be left at the church Sunday morning or at the home of Mrs. S. Hutchison.

NAVAL GROWTH IS OUTLINED

Tracing the growth of the British navy from the days of ancient Briton's war canoes to the present steel giants.

Major M. Kirkpatrick-Crockett addressed the Round Table Knights at the Empress Hotel, yesterday, evening, on "From Canoes to Dreadnoughts."

Slides, depicting war vessels of several ages, were shown by the speaker, who gave interesting data on naval development.

Richard I had floated the first great English invading fleet, the lecturer said, using it to transport his crusaders. In the reign of Edward I the first English admiral was created, while in the time of Edward II the house of York was used for the first time. Henry VII placed the navy on a respectable footing and during the reign of his granddaughter, Elizabeth, the value of the navy to command the seas for world trade purposes was realized.

The glorious days of Blake and Van Tromp and the dramatic tactics of Nelson were dealt with by the speaker, who concluded his address with a description of English naval activities in the World War.

Some of the prints exhibited Norman transports, Danish surf boats and high-popped, top-heavy looking vessels of the middle ages, as well as frigates, sloops and full-rigged ships of the line.

CHINESE WOMAN SMUGGLER MUST SERVE SENTENCE

Appeal of Mrs. Kao Ying, Wife of Former San Francisco
Consul Fails

Nanking, China, Oct. 8.—Sentence of Mrs. Kao Ying, wife of the former Chinese vice-consul in San Francisco, to four years imprisonment and a fine of $4,000, as a result of her conviction for smuggling opium into the United States, was upheld yesterday by Nationalist Government Supreme Court.

The Chinese woman appealed the verdict of the Soochow Higher Court which found her guilty. She is slated to serve her sentence in the Soochow prison.

The Supreme Court ordered the cases of Kao Ying, her husband, who was also arrested in connection with the opium smuggling activities, and Sun Yuan, former consul aide in San Francisco, retried in the Soochow Court.

The three were arrested several months ago in San Francisco when United States Customs officials broke open trunks belonging to Mrs. Kao and discovered opium they said was valued at close to half a million dollars.

The trunks were under diplomatic immunity. She denied knowledge of the opium, saying she took the baggage to the United States for friends. Her subsequent trial and conviction followed removal to Soochow from San Francisco.

Local English Rugby Leagues Will Open October 25 and Nov. 1

THE SPORTS MIRROR

THE LAST few battles in the recent United States amateur golf championship must have recalled fond memories to Bobby Jones. While Jones was sitting Jesse Sweetser in half of the semi-final bracket, two of his young men of tender years were fighting it out for the right to meet Bobby in the final. It was as just such an "upstart" that Bobby Jones, fourteen years ago, went to the semi-final bracket against Bob Gardner at Merion.

Young Charlie Seaver, one of the semi-finalists, from southern California, is only eighteen. He is an all-around athlete, weighing 178 pounds in his more than six feet of height. He is the son of a golfing father who is wild to have the young man go somewhere, in a big way, in golf. Gene Homans, the other young semi-finalist, who eventually won his way to the final, is twenty-one years of age, tall, slender, and not especially athletic looking. He speaks softly, and his eyes are watery. On the early spring, at Pinehurst he blazed his way to victory in the annual North and South amateur tournament.

In the Los Angeles open of two years ago, Seaver was second among the amateurs, beaten by a slight margin by George Von Elm. Walter Hagen spotted him right off the bat as "another Jones." Jones was twenty-one before he finally crashed through, although he was only fifteen when he reached the next to last round at Merion. That was eight years ago.

Seaver goes in for golf tournaments seriously, even to the point of a rigorous training routine whereby he develops his "swing muscles." Seaver goes in for all sorts of sports activity including squash, hurdling, weight-tossing and gymnastics. And his build shows it.

Homans' father, Sheppard Homans, was in the football hall of fame at Princeton, having twice been chosen for the All-America team. Papa Homans hoped his boy would be a great football player. But the boy was too light. Baseball was his favor, however. It was as a boy, following his father in friendly foursomes, that Gene began to like golf.

Cyril Walker taught young Gene his game. And one of the first things Walker told him was to give up baseball, on the grounds that the baseball swing interfered with the golf swing.

Homans met Jones before, in the 1927 amateur at Minneapolis. The draw pitted the eighteen-year-old Homans against the world's greatest golfer. Bobby won, 3 and 2. Last year the two shared medal honors at Pebble Beach with 145.

We wonder if Bobby Jones didn't feel just a little odd when he saw the young fellows coming up at Merion this year?

Most of the golf experts now are awaiting announcement of Jones' plans for the future. It is possible that he will seek the Tom Thumb championship.

Bobby has said that if he feels like another tournament next year, he will play. And if he does, a lot of so-called players will compete merely for points of vantage with the spectators on the fairway.

Jones could enter the movies. Just think of the thrill of seeing a closeup of Bobby kissing a golf ball for 300 yards.

Following the Merion event, the Atlanta admitted that he was sick during most of the tournament. That should be good news to Jess Sweetser.

Gabby Street has been signed to a 1931 contract to manage the St. Louis Cardinals. They are going to give Street another chance for his alley.

O'Grady thinks the word Street ought not to be neglected. He thinks Street couldn't be curbed. Well, well!

No Restrictions On Intermediate Team Players Union Says

Neither Age Nor Weight to Determine League in Which Men May Play; Intermediates to Open Schedule This Month, Seniors a Week Later; Intermediates May Play Two Senior Games; Harry Smith Named Head of High School Leagues.

Announcement that no age or weight restrictions would be placed on players in the intermediate league, that it would swing into action on October 25 and would be followed by the senior division a week later, featured the deliberations of the Victoria Rugby Union at its meeting yesterday afternoon.

Three teams will compose the senior league, the Canadian Scottish, last year's champions; the J.B.A.A., city titleholders for many years and runners-up last season; and the Oak Bay Wanderers, a new entry in the higher division.

These three clubs will also enter squads in the intermediate section, with Victoria College, University School and the Y.M.C.A. may also play in this class if the standard of their teams is approved by the school and association authorities.

Harry Smith, well-known player of yesterday and prominent man in rugby circles, was placed in charge of High School rugby activities, and was authorized to draw up arrangements for three cup series. Public school rugby also received attention, but, owing to the absence of the league's delegate in charge of this section, was left in abeyance.

WANT SCHOOL SERIES
Victoria High School, Mr. Smith stated, wanted three teams to compete against it for the Scott-Moncheff trophy, suggesting Brentwood, University School and either Shawinigan Lake or a Victoria College second fifteen. He stated he would be willing to confer with each of the schools and report back to the union with a tentative schedule and playing rules.

He suggested that the league might be played by Christmas, with each team taking part in one game to decide the finalists. The two winners would meet for the trophy later, he suggested.

V. I. Denton, president of the local union suggested that the games be played on Wednesdays. No action was taken on the matter of disallowing school players from taking part in games in other leagues at the meeting.

Discussion regarding matches for the Hodgson Cup League, for second teams from the high schools of the lower island, and for the Howard Russell trophy, was held over until Mr. Smith reported back on the high school situation.

WOULD KEEP PLAYERS OUT
Speaking of a weight and age limit, Mr. Lister stated that the enforcement of such a law would keep a number of those desiring to play rugby out of the game. The University School team were strong enough to meet the other teams of that division. It would be entered in the intermediate league, Mr. Wenman, representing the University School, said his team would be the most affected by the ruling, but stated they were anxious to enter a team, and had suffered to some extent from injuries against heavier opponents, but did not wish to make any restrictive suggestion to the union, he said.

MAY PLAY TWO SENIOR GAMES
The union decided that an intermediate playing two games in the senior division could secure reinstatement in the union was that some of the senior teams might not be able to field complete teams for some matches and their managers might want to draw from the intermediate players and their clubs to fill out their fifteen.

SHIELD COMPETITION
Running concurrently with the tournament will be the shield competition. Each club will name five players and the team with the lowest gross total will win the shield. The trophy is at present held by the greenkeepers of the Victoria Golf Club.

TIGERS WILL STILL OPPOSE FORWARD PASS

Canadian Rugby Champions, After Western Tour, See No Advantage in Play

Easterners Declare Game Making Progress in West; Made Wonderful Record

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 2.—Commenting on the recently completed tour of Hamilton Tigers, Dominion football champions, through western Canada, Coach Mike Rodden said:

"The Bengals whipped every leading team from Winnipeg to Vancouver, playing seven games in two weeks. In all, they registered 195 official points against nineteen advanced yards, and scored 151 times against twenty-nine, and threw up a defence against the forward pass so effectively that seventy-three aerial attacks failed to net the westerners a single point.

Tigers tried the play on twelve occasions. Completed it three times and scored a touchdown, yet they remain opposed to the introduction of the pass into Canadian football, explaining that it delays the game and, under the three-yard interference rule, cannot be effective in regard to opening up the play. The west, however, has gone wild over the forward throw and will retain this method of attack even if they fail to make headway against the Bengals.

ENOYABLE TRIP
"Tigers had a most enjoyable trip and were well received in most cities. Saskatoon, Winnipeg and Vancouver in particular showing the finest sportsmanship imaginable. Football is making real progress in the west, although it will be some time before the Grey Cup is in danger of taking a journey in that direction.

There are some high-class players in Winnipeg, but they are divided. Deacon White, have shown a return to the form of championship days, and Vancouver teams are making headway, but the Regina Roughriders again appear to be the team to beat for the title. They have a strong defence and a fairly good attack, even if they moved the yardsticks only twice in plays from scrimmage, other than the forward pass, against the Tigers. If they retain their laurels they will compete in the Canadian final this fall."

Art Shires Is Making Plans To Resume Fighting

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Now that the baseball season is ended, the popular Art Shires, the self-confessed great man, Shires is considering his winter trade as a professional fighter despite the odds of Kansas Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner, to stay away from the boxing business.

The former White Sox first baseman is working in a Chicago gymnasium in ring tops, and tips the scales at 180 pounds. He is going on a barnstorming tour with a team of all American stars. After the tour finishes October 21, Shires says he will be ready to give a lot of deep thought to the idea of returning to the ring.

Carnera Looks Like Novice In Furious Bout With Maloney

Giant Italian Heavyweight Loses First Battle of Tour to Boston Heavyweight, Who Gives Away Sixty-five Pounds, But Wins Easily; Maloney Absorbs 195 of Carnera's Blows and Fights Greatest Battle of Erratic Career; Carnera Sails for Italy This Week.

By BILL KING, Associated Press Sports Writer
Boston, Oct. 2.—The fist capabilities of Primo Carnera, heretofore either under or over-estimated, were accurately gauged yesterday evening by Jimmy Maloney, Boston's favorite but unreliable heavyweight. Giving away sixty-five pounds to the Italian behemoth, the Boston "fat boy" clearly outpointed him in a furious ten-round slugfest at the Boston Garden.

Maloney proved Carnera does not possess a killing punch. He digested exactly 195 of the giant's blows and the only time he lost his footing was when he fell against the ropes after missing a wild "roundhouse" right to the Italian's jaw late in the bout. The Boston battler's performance, at least to the 12,000 who witnessed the exciting set-to also indicated it would be sound judgment to disregard the twenty-three consecutive victories, twenty-two via the knockout route, the "ambling Alp" has piled up against carefully selected opponents since he started his United States invasion early this year.

The Boston battler also proved Carnera was easy to hit. Maloney scored 192 times to the head or body of his huge opponent, and ninety per cent of them landed cleanly. Most of Carnera's punches were short right or left chops to the head and body, struck after his brute force had pushed his 165-pound rival against the ropes or into a corner.

HIS BEST FIGHT
Maloney won the short end of the 4 to 1 betting odds, but he fought the greatest battle of his long career, and his victory was honestly earned. Carnera's sixty-five pounds advantage and his eight inches in height enabled him to turn and twist Maloney as he wished to take the first two rounds.

Maloney improved in the following round and had the battle won before he wilted in the ninth. The Italian's amazing strength gave him the last two sessions, but these points were not enough to sway the officials in his favor.

Carnera fought like a novice during most of the bout, and the only time he troubled Maloney was when he shot him against the ropes. As a boxer Primo, judging from his performance yesterday evening, is at least two years away from the time when he will prove troublesome to occupants of the top rungs of the heavyweight ladder.

CARNERA SAILS SOON
The unofficial gate receipts figures were announced at $60,000. Carnera's purse was $40,000 and Maloney was guaranteed $15,000 with a twenty-five per cent privilege. Carnera sails for Italy late this week.

Stage Set For International Fishermen's Race Thursday

Bluenose Will Meet Gertrude L. Thebaud For Lipton Trophy

Veteran Angus Walters Will Sail Queen of the Canadian Fishing Fleet Against Gloucester Craft in Series for International Championship; First Schooner to Win Two Races Takes Trophy; Will Race Over Thirty-seven-mile Course; Gertrude L. Thebaud Puts in New Mast.

By TOM HORGAN, Associated Press Staff Writer

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 8.—The men who brave the fury of the North Atlantic to reap the harvest of the deep will make sport of their hazardous calling to-morrow when the Bluenose, out of Lunenburg, N.S., queen of the Canadian fishing fleet, and the schooner Gertrude L. Thebaud, pride of the Gloucester fleet, sail off here for the Sir Thomas Lipton International Fishermen's Challenge Trophy.

The cup will go to the schooner first to win two races over a triangular course of approximately thirty-seven nautical miles, and with it the greater part of a large purse.

The series will mark a resumption of the international fishermen's contests after a lapse of seven years. During that period Gloucester schooners have raced among themselves, and the fishermen of the Maritime Provinces have done the same thing.

When the series off Gloucester has been sailed the two schooners are scheduled to leave for Halifax, N.S., and off that port to race for the old Dennis Cup, emblematic of the sailing championship of the North Atlantic. The cup was last won by Bluenose, but owing to a dispute in a later contest the trophy's status has remained obscure during the past seven years.

Capt. Angus Walters, who has sailed Bluenose to more than one victory, is again at the wheel, and Capt. Ben Pine, veteran of many sailing contests, will skipper Gloucester's hope in both series.

Bluenose is considerably larger than Thebaud, and carries an appreciably larger spread of sail, but she is now more than nine years old, and rightly or wrongly it has been said she no longer possesses the speed of her youth.

HISTORIC RACES

It is impossible to say how many years fishermen have been racing. Probably their sailing contests date back to the first time two fishermen found themselves homeward bound for the same market with fares of fish. Ever since fishing became an organized industry there have been races to port with the season's first catches of mackerel, swordfish and other fish.

Gloucester is preparing to play host to the largest throng of visitors in the history of the ancient seaport. Thursday, the American Legion meeting in Boston, has been invited and a large portion of that organization is expected to watch Bluenose and Thebaud battle for the international sailing supremacy of the North Atlantic.

TAKES NEW MAST

The Thebaud took aboard a new main mast yesterday, the original mast having been found too light to stand the strain put upon it by her big mainsail.

The Bluenose throughout the day was a beehive of industry as Capt. Walters and his crew hastened the big Lunenburg schooner's fine tuning up. Yesterday evening both vessels were tied up at neighboring fish piers, which were thronged with visitors who wished to see at close hand two of the handsomest and ablest vessels of the fishing fleet.

"The race committé yesterday evening had as its guest at a boxing show in Boston the crews of both vessels. Unless appearances are very deceiving, many of the fifty odd making the race will be the crews of the schooners could go into the average prize ring and throw both of its occupants out of it.

Dutch Ruether needed all the fifteen runs made by his mates to win the first contest, during which Wes Schumacher, Ray Jacobs and Louis Almada hit home runs. Andy House held the Angels to three hits, one of them a homer, by Carl Distman and poked out a couple of circuit clouts to lead the tribe attack on winning the short second contest. Fritz Holland was sent to the club-house by Umpire McLaughlin in the third inning for too heated a protest while at bat.

At Los Angeles—R. H. E. Seattle..... 13 18 0 Los Angeles..... 13 18 3 Batteries—Ruether and Cox; Gabler, Walsh and Skiff, Warren.

Second game—R. H. E. Seattle..... 11 17 0 Los Angeles..... 1 3 2 Batteries—House and Borraani; Barfoot and Warren.

Oakland, Calif., Oct. 8.—Scoring two runs each in the seventh and eighth inning San Francisco defeated Oakland 7 to 5, in the series opener here yesterday evening. An Oakland rally in the ninth when three runs were scored off three hits was halted after Turpin relieved Douglas on the Sox mound.

San Francisco pounded three Oakland pitchers steadily, getting at least one hit in all but one inning. Hurst took over the mound work for Oakland in the seventh after Philadel was pounded for four hits and two runs in the seventh. He then stepped out for a pinch hitter and Joiner finished the pitching assignment.

At Oakland—R. H. E. San Francisco..... 7 11 2 Oakland..... 5 9 3 Batteries—Douglas, Turpin and Penebaky; Penebaky, Hurst, Joiner and Reed.

BULB CULTURE EXPLAINED BY E. M. STRAIGHT

Horticultural Society Has Fine Meeting at City Hall; Exhibitors Win Prizes

The Victoria Horticultural Society got away to a good start in its first meeting of the year, under the newly elected officers at the City Hall last evening.

E. M. Straight, superintendent of the Experimental Station, Sanicthon, addressed the society on bulb culture, tulips, hyacinths, and narcissi were dealt with at length. The first named, said the speaker, was generally recognized as the most popular variety, and was particularly favored for Vancouver Island. Various types were illustrated and described. The question of suitable soils for best quality blooms was discussed. Fertilizers best adapted were given, as was information on the method of planting. For outside planting, holes four inches deep and eight inches apart were advocated. The planting of bulbs for indoor use was aptly demonstrated. One of the advantages of the tulips was illustrated in the fact that they were fairly free from disease.

One interesting feature in hyacinth culture was the system of securing numerous small bulbs from one mature bulb. From forty-five mature bulbs no less than 1,000 were taken, it was stated.

R. W. Paton and H. Whitlock voiced the appreciation of the society to the speaker for his address. Dr. A. G. Price, newly-elected president, presided over the enthusiastic meeting.

Various suggestions for the holding of a fall show which would care chiefly for chrysanthemums, were made and were left to the incoming executive to deal with.

Representatives of the air port committee were assured that the council would aid the Maple Bay proposal.

The House was appointed to the public markets committee.

WOMEN MUST "STAY ON JOB" COUNCIL TOLD

Mrs. J. A. Wilson Urges National Body to Concentrate on Reforms

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 8.—By steady work and unremitting pressure the will of the enfranchised women of Canada can bring about reforms to the social and economic world, the women must "stay on the job," declared Mrs. J. A. Wilson of Ottawa, in her presidential address to-day to the convention of the National Council of Women.

Mrs. Wilson, in an inspiring address, took the unceasing flow of a great river, which rolls over and cuts into the Niagara gorge, as an example of the results to be achieved by steady work. She paid tribute to the work done by American women in aiding to secure the ratification of the Briand-Kellogg anti-war pact, by vigorous letter campaign, in which the President of the United States alone was made the recipient of 800 letters daily.

Mrs. Wilson recalled there were three main problems before the council when she took office four years ago, namely maternal care, unemployment and household economics. She pointed to the illuminating addresses on unemployment delivered by labor leaders before the council, but, she admitted, "in common with hitherto, we haven't done much." She exhorted her hearers to take the problem up more thoroughly, warning that the increasing mechanization of the world created an urgent demand for new methods of distribution "so that our vast masses of raw and manufactured materials may be put to use by those who have not enough of anything."

"Think of it," exclaimed the National Council president, "a large territory, vast mineral wealth, bountiful harvests and a pitifully-herded population, starving and ill-clad it is all wrong."

MYSTICISM OF MARY WEBB IS ANALYZED

Mrs. R. P. Steeves, Childhood Friend, Tells Clubwomen of Authorship

Writer of "Precious Bane" Compared to Thos. Hardy and Knud Hamsen

An intimate picture of Mary Webb, the English authoress and creator of "Precious Bane," who attained posthumous fame with her brilliant novels of the Shropshire countryside, was drawn for the Women's Canadian Club yesterday afternoon by Mrs. R. P. Steeves of Vancouver, who enjoyed the friendship of the authoress as a child and who knew her in the formative years when she lived with her family in the heart of the "enchanted hills," to which reference is so often made in her books.

HOME ENVIRONMENT

Calling upon childhood memories of the poetess and writer, Mrs. Steeves told of the environment in which Mary Webb spent her childhood. She was then Gladys Meredith, and after her marriage to Bertram Webb changed her first name to Mary, a whimsical fancy typical of her character. Her home was a converted mill built on the side of the hill, a whimsical, rambling, inconsequent old place, according to the speaker, full of quaint corners and narrow corridors, and full, too, of insects, such as the death watch beetle, which filled the old house with eerie creepings, rustlings and squealings. This environment, coupled with her intense love of the outdoors, was largely responsible for the sense of communion between herself and the animal kingdom which is so apparent in all through her writings. The mill well with its incessant sound of running water also helped in the unfolding of the poetic faculties of the writer, said Mrs. Steeves.

INTROSPECTIVE MYSTICISM

A very delicate girl, the then Gladys Meredith spent long days dreaming in the sunshine, developing that introspective mysticism and wonderful insight into the life of animals, birds and flowers, and heightening the spiritual quality which shone through her. After her marriage to a teacher, who shared her sense of mysticism and spiritual life, Mary Webb developed both mental and physical and her first serious work was written after her marriage. In spite of poverty, she and her husband were ideally happy, said Mrs. Steeves, and the delicate girl underwent an absolute renaissance, and led a hardy, active, out-door life and wrote some of her finest novels and poems. "The Golden Arrow," her first serious work, being written a year after her marriage.

BALDWIN'S TRIBUTE

The speaker described the removal of the Webb to London, where "Precious Bane" was written and where the writer died four years ago at the early age of forty-six. Mrs. Steeves recalled the impetus given to the sale of Mary Webb's works—then practically unknown—by Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, when, as Prime Minister, he spoke at a literary gathering in London and paid tribute to the genius of Mary Webb, who had died a few days previously, practically "unwept, unlearned and unnamed." His reference to her as one of the three most brilliant writers of the day, focussed public attention upon her work with the result that fame came, but too late for her to enjoy it.

But Mary Webb's happiness did not lie along the lines of social prestige and material success, observed the speaker. "Fame, publicity, the Montaigne which is so often a concomitant of success these days, would have been bewildering to her, and I think she was far happier in her communion with the beauty of nature. She was a poet and a mystic, and close contact with the soil all her life brought her spiritual understanding and a happiness she would not have found in material things."

COMPARED WITH HARDY

Mrs. Steeves noted that Mary Webb had been compared with Thomas Hardy, in that both had the same cosmic quality, but while she expressed it in essentially feminine terms, he saw life from the purely male standpoint. She had been compared to Knud Hamsen, the Scandinavian writer of stories of the peasant, but while his stories were essentially "of the earth, earthy," Mary Webb's "had the freshness that suggests putting one's face to the earth and feeling the soft dew."

Mary Webb was a poet rather than a novelist, in the opinion of the speaker, in as much as her plots were feeble, and were merely the medium through which to express her understanding of the spiritual rather than the material side of things. "She saw the light shining not on, but through the material aspect of things."

The speaker quoted several poems and various passages from the works of Mary Webb to illustrate her delightful humor and gift of characterization, and in closing pointed out that "Gone to Earth," a story showing the cruelty of fox-hunting, was the only one of the late writer's novels in which the brutal forces of materialism triumphed over those of the beauties of nature.

Mrs. Allen Sullivan eloquently moved the vote of thanks to the speaker, which was supplemented by Mrs. P. R. Taylor, the president, with a beautiful bouquet of flowers in recognition of the club's appreciation.

Chapter Plans Sale—The regular monthly meeting of the Victoria Nightingale Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held at headquarters on Monday afternoon. Mrs. K. C. Symons presiding and twenty-two members present. Arrangements were made for the annual sale of work which will be held the first Saturday in December, location to be announced later. Mrs. Hudson, 627 Transit Road, invited all members to a sewing meeting at her home on Tuesday afternoon, October 14 at 2.30 o'clock.

proaches Organization

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 6.—Returning here last night following a day of activity in St. Catharines, delegates from coast to coast, attending the National Council of Women, completed final preparations for the opening today of the "Shop-at-home" exhibition in the local hockey arena. This synchronizes with the opening proper of the convention, which will be featured by the fourth annual presidential address of Mrs. J. A. Wilson, of Ottawa, who has for years been prominently associated with the advancing of the work done by women's organizations.

CONDEMNED STERILIZATION
Dr. Mabel L. Hannington, St. John, N.B., noted specialist in mental hygiene, delivered one of the most important addresses before the delegates at St. Catharines. She condemned general sterilization measures for the mentally defective and declared neither the National Council nor any other lay organization of men or women should undertake to recommend such procedure. She urged that the question be omitted from discussion.

Dr. Hannington criticized the lack of training homes for the sub-normal in Saskatchewan, New Brunswick, British Columbia and Prince Edward Island, which meant, she said, that cases requiring custody were sent to the provincial hospitals for insane.

Miss Whitton then reproached the Council for too often making recommendations based on opinion rather than action, for not always recognizing the value of highly specialized technicians in topics they considered. She declared there was danger of overdevelopment in community and welfare interests and lack of necessary coordination.

Gonzales Chapter Met—The monthly meeting of Gonzales Chapter was held on Tuesday at headquarters. Final arrangements were made for the bridge tea to be held under the auspices of the Chapter in the New Thought Temple on Wednesday, October 22. The Chapter signified its approval of the suggestion of the Municipal Chapter that the next meeting of Municipal Chapter be held at the Y.W.C.A. on the evening of October 23.

Orphanage Found Party—The annual found party will be held at the Orphan's Home tomorrow from 3 to 6 o'clock. Visitors will be given an opportunity of inspecting the home. Afternoon tea will be provided and served by the ladies' committee.

LOCAL SINGER PLANS RECITAL

Kate Frances Ede to Appear at Shrine Hall October 20

A recital of interest to many will be given by Kate Frances Ede on Monday evening, October 20, in the Shrine Auditorium. Miss Ede, who was formerly active in musical circles in Victoria, began her vocal studies here and obtained her L.A.B. degree. She spent three years in Japan, where she studied with Mrs. Hilton Fedley, of the Metropolitan Opera Company. While attending the School of Music of the University of Oregon, Miss Ede studied with Mme. Rose McGrew, formerly prima donna of Dresden, Hanover and Breslau.

Miss Ede had had considerable experience as a soloist, having sung with the Takaradoko Symphony Orchestra in concert and was soloist at the Union Church, Kobe, Japan. Criticisms of her recitals in Eugene, Oregon, were most favorable.

Miss Gwendoline Harper, who will be the assisting artist, will be well remembered for her very successful pianoforte recital of a year ago. Miss Beatrice Hicks, whose artistic work is always a joy, will act as accompanist.

Catholic Women Arrange Three- Day Bazaar

Plans for the forthcoming three-day bazaar to be held in Amphion Hall at the end of November, arrangements for a card party at the home of Mrs. Kissinger on October 31; a sale of home cooking on Saturday morning, October 11; a rummage sale for Saturday, October 25; a linen shower to be held this afternoon at the home of the Christian Brothers, Fernwood Road, were some of the matters discussed at last night's meeting of the Victoria Sub-division, Catholic Women's League, in the Bishop's library, with the president, Mrs. W. McManus, in the chair. Mrs. Serice, secretary, and Mrs. Kyle, treasurer, gave the monthly reports of activities and finances. Mrs. Wm. Burns, corresponding secretary, reported correspondence in connection with the bazaar. A letter of thanks was sent Mrs. F. H. Mulligan for her hospitality to the League and friends at the recent successful card party at her home on Douglas street. Mrs. Mahoney gave an interesting report of hospital visiting and was reappointed, with Mrs. Kennedy, for the coming month. Miss O'Brien reported as convener of social service, showing that the sewing circle of the junior subdivision is giving much valuable material in needy cases, and other details of visiting have been systematically carried out.

Mrs. McManus and Mrs. Beneman undertook the convener of the rummage sale for October 25, in the premises recently occupied by McPherson's Auction Rooms. Flagged street. The committee named to take charge of the details of the evening card party at Mrs. Kissinger's home, Fairfield Road, will be Mrs. Massarati, Mrs. Blair Reid, Mrs. Grant, Mrs. H. Cannon, Mrs. M. O'Neill and Mrs. McLennan. Plans for a series of card parties in the homes of members during the winter months were considered and a special prize for the highest scores during the season suggested by Mrs. O'Neill.

Mrs. Blair Reid, a past diocesan secretary, was the voting delegate chosen by the meeting to represent the Victoria Subdivision at the Diocesan convention which will be held on Thursday, October 30. Mrs. McManus spoke of the tag day being held for the Solarium and as convener of tag days reported that the Market Building has been allotted to the Catholic Women's League. Mrs. L. Thompson was appointed representative on the Junior Red Cross. Members were reminded of the bridge tea and five hundred party to be held on the afternoon of October 14 by the Altar Society, at Spencer's.

Bazaar committees were elected as follows: Books, Mrs. McManus, Mrs. Massarati, Mrs. de Blaquiere; fancy work, Mrs. Sabin, Mrs. Baines, Mrs. Mahoney, Mrs. Burns; aprons, Mrs. Scallan, Mrs. Devereaux; home cooking, Mrs. H. Cannon, Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Hunter, Mrs. Kyle, Mrs. Beneman, Mrs. Hood, Mrs. C. McLennan. Rev. Father Evans spoke upon the progress of bazaar plans.

Triumph Lodge—The regular monthly meeting of Triumph Lodge No. 16, I.O.G.T., will be held Thursday at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. C. Todd, 623 Belton Avenue. The report of the annual grand lodge session will be given.

CONSISTENT TREATMENT OF CHILD
A PROBLEM IN FAMILY OF ADULTS

The relative problem crops up repeatedly. One of the chief points of friction in families is the difference of opinion on the subject of discipline for misbehavior. We feel that for the matter to be handled consistently it should be left to one individual, either father or the mother. If any other members of the family disagree, they should air their criticisms outside the hearing of the child. How can any child feel he is getting fair treatment when the various adults of the family can't decide themselves what is wrong and what is right?

In homes where there is more than one adult in charge, any adult assumes the opposite position to the parent. If the parent is severe, the opposing adult is lenient, and vice versa. In the end this is probably better for the child than too much severity or too much leniency, but it isn't consistent treatment. The child never knows which side is going to be uppermost, so that instead of being unreasonable his behavior is just playing one side against the other, doing as he pleases and hoping for the best.

A REAL EXAMPLE
In this mixed-up household, where three adults reign, there is an even worse situation. In fact, a worse one, from the standpoint of the child, could hardly be concocted if it were arranged purposely.

Here is a two and one-half year old child with a mother and aunt and a grandmother, all differing as to the treatment. The special grievance is the aunt who administers punishment when the mother is out of sight.

Mrs. T. M. says in part: "I live with my mother-in-law and another son's wife lives there, too. I do not believe in spanking, but as soon as my back is turned she takes advantage of my absence to spank my little girl. Whenever I come home from down town the child tells me she has been spanked for something or other."

CHOOSE YOUR COURSE
Possibly the aunt feels that as she has the care and responsibility of the child when you are gone she also has the right of managing the discipline. To give your child the kind of treatment you consider fair, there are three courses open to you: Take care of her yourself all the time, and don't ask others to be responsible for her. Hire someone else to look after her when you are away. Move into your own home. The last is by far the most desirable of all. Then you can manage the child in your own way.

Children need to learn that older persons are in authority over them, but there are all kinds of discipline—spanking is just one of them, and undesirable.

ALASKA SEEN AS AIR BASE

U.S. Secretary of the Interior Says Land Will Lie on Big Plane Route to Asia

Telling of the comparatively unknown fertility of Alaska and stating his view that that country would some day lie on a safe air route from this continent to Asia and Europe, Ernest W. Sawyer, executive assistant to the Secretary of the Interior for the United States, arrived in Victoria at the beginning of the week. He was on his way home from a lengthy tour of Alaska.

After flying for 5,000 miles, Mr. Sawyer expressed every hope that such an air route would be developed in a time. It would lead through Siberia to the more western parts of Europe, he stated.

Although known generally as a land of ice and barren tundras, Alaska had several tracts of fertile land, the visitor stated, saying that herds of reindeer were being grazed on them and were furnishing a great deal of meat for the commercial markets of the world.

Planes opened up the country, he stated, saying that besides making several commercial ventures into the interior, many had flown across the narrow stretch between Alaska and Asia.

On Monday, Mr. Sawyer paid a short visit to Dr. Tolmie, whom he met on the recent Golden Twilight caravan through the northern part of B.C. When questioned regarding the attitude of the United States towards an Alaska highway through the province, Mr. Sawyer stated that although he was not empowered to give any official statement, the project was being watched keenly by department heads at Washington.

DR. J. M. FOWLER NEW PRESIDENT OF MEDICAL SOCIETY

Succeeds Dr. Gordon Kenning at Helm of Organization Here

For many years a well-known and popular member of the medical profession in this city, Dr. J. M. Fowler was elected president of the Victoria Medical Society at the annual meeting of that body held this week.

Dr. Fowler succeeds in the office, Dr. Gordon Kenning, who has guided the destinies of the organization with success during the last twelve months, which were marked by the visit of the British Medical Association recently.

The new president of the society is a graduate of Toronto University. He came to Vancouver Island shortly before the war, after training in New York and other eastern centres, going first to Ladysmith and later to the St. J. Hospital here as interne, afterwards joining practice with Dr. Fraser.

After going overseas in the war, he returned to resume practice with Dr. Fraser and has stayed here since that time.

Dr. J. H. Moore is the new vice-president of the society, the other officers being: Dr. F. M. Bryant, honorary secretary-treasurer; committee, Dr. George Hall, Dr. W. I. Barrett and Dr. M. W. Thomas. Dr. W. E. Scott-Moncrieff was appointed the society's representative on the executive of the British Columbia Medical Association and Dr. H. E. Ridewood was re-elected as honorary treasurer of the library fund.

As a mark of tribute to a pioneer in the medical profession here, the society has decided to place in the gallery of the medical library a picture of Dr. William Fraser Tolmie, one of the first physicians on the Pacific Coast, and father of Premier Tolmie.

Farmer Arrested In Shooting Case

Barrie, Ont., Oct. 8.—Following three months' investigation police Monday arrested Gordon Bradley, thirty-two-year-old farmer, in connection with the mysterious shooting of Russell Rowe near the latter's home on the night of June 30.

Appearing in local police court charged, with attempted murder, Bradley was remanded in custody for hearing on October 13.

Suspicion of a political motive in the shooting and that Rowe was shot in mistake for his brother, Earl Rowe, M.P. for Dufferin-Simcoe, are believed to have been dispelled by yesterday's developments.

When the incident occurred the Dominion election campaign was at its height. Rowe was shot while alighting from his brother's car after visiting a young woman in the neighborhood. Rowe's assailant fired twice. The first discharge passing over his head. The second struck him in the arm, completely shattering the bone. The fact that the attacker fired at close range probably saved Rowe's life, as the charge did not have time to spread.

SHOT MAN AND HID THE BODY: IS ACQUITTED

Peterboro, Ont., Oct. 8.—A jury here Monday, under Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young, after hearing evidence for nearly three hours, returned a verdict that Edward Handland, thirty-two-year-old farmer, who was shot and killed by a bullet fired by Joseph Murray, and that the shooting was entirely accidental.

Murray frankly admitted the shooting, explaining that his revolver had been accidentally discharged, and just as he was told of becoming panic-stricken and hiding the body, in the hope that the story of the shooting would not become known.

Horoscope

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1930

Benefic aspects dominate to-day, according to astrology, which reads in the stars much that is encouraging to humanity.

The rule is stimulating to the imagination and inspiring to writers and artists of every sort.

The United States is to become more and more the country of quality and the best of world geniuses, the seers prophesy.

Both the Pacific and Atlantic coasts are to develop great centres of education to which the youth of far countries will come in greater numbers next year.

Again there will be a military spirit strongly manifest in the United States, it is forecast, but it will be protecting and not aggressive.

Aviation is to focus attention to the detriment of other branches of the service, if the stars are rightly read.

The navy is to gain new fame, however, before the end of the year and victories are to become more important than they have been since disarmament movements have focused attention, astrologers declare.

Under this direction of the stars good luck attends many who ask for favors or support, financial or political.

If the seers are to be believed new parties will complicate the next national election and cause surprising results.

The intelligence of the nation is to unite for reform efforts that will affect results in the presidential campaign, the seers prophesy.

They who read the stars discern signs of a general awakening to the sort of civic consciousness that assumes serious responsibility in regard to the government of the nation.

Apparent problems of the nation are to be solved most advantageously for the country, astrologers prophesy.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the security of a lucky year in business or professional work.

Children born on this day probably will be extremely talented and yet businesslike and practical. The subjects of this sign usually are executive and constructive in their work.

Deaths shown this date celebrated in 1850: Lewis Chas. 1782, American statesman and soldier; Winfield Scott Schley, 1839, U.S. Admiral; Charles X, King of France, 1757.

Infantile Paralysis Cases in California

San Francisco, Oct. 8.—With 1,651 cases of infantile paralysis reported in California this year, Dr. George E. Ehrlich, president of the State Board of Health, said the peak had apparently been reached.

"YOUR SCALES NEED FIXING"

Said a Fat Woman—Indignantly

"Better get these scales fixed," exclaimed a rather stout, fashionably dressed woman in a drug store the other day—"they make me weigh 12 pounds too much."

"All of which goes to show," remarked the good-natured druggist, "that women take on fat so rapidly that they don't realize it."

"If that woman doesn't watch out," he continued, "when she comes in two weeks from now, the scales will be wrong about 30 pounds."

"Is there anything that will take off fat outside of three or four hours of strenuous exercise every day?" asked a scholarly looking man who was buying a tube of ointment for his lame knee.

"Not many things," answered the dispenser of drugs, "but lately there has been a big demand for a combination of vitalizing mineral salts that many of my fat customers are enthusiastic about."

"It is called Kruschen Salts and it must do the work for I can see for myself that many of them are losing weight."

"It is an inexpensive way to take off fat," continued the drug store man, "for one bottle, even with big does will last one person for 30 days."

"Never heard of that treatment," said the scholarly looking man, "but I haven't any fat to lose anyway."

"I've heard of it," chimed in a well-built middle-aged man who had just come in. "I was 15 pounds overweight—was getting fat—and I give Kruschen Salts credit for ridding me of the unwelcome excess baggage."

"They'll have your picture in the paper if you aren't careful," said the druggist laughingly.

"No they won't," replied the well-built man, "but I'm not backward about saying a good word for a good product, and I can say in all sincerity that Kruschen Salts are good. Not only did they help me to get down to normal weight, but they keep my bowels and kidneys in good condition and I'm more vigorous and active than I have been for years."

"That's a good enough man," said the scholarly looking man.

"Glad you came in," said the proprietor. "I'll tell my fat customers what you said."

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle. (Adv.)

STRONG WIND SWEEPS AWAY DENSE FOGS

Coast Shipping Felt Rough Weather Yesterday, But Mists Have Passed Away

A stiff wind, rising to a moderate gale and sweeping in from the Pacific, sprang up yesterday afternoon and continued this morning, sweeping away the fog which has been lying low over the Strait and the Gulf for the last few days, tying up shipping and rendering navigation dangerous and slow. Captains of ships were able to leave the bridge yesterday afternoon, and the wind which swept away the fog, however, sent white caps racing across the Strait and the Gulf yesterday, and ships rolled a little. Rough weather, with the ships ploughing along, is nothing compared to a dense fog which reduces the speed of ships in narrow waters and keeps the ships' whistles blowing continuously to warn passing ships.

Tug boats and small fishing boats along the West coast even in more protected waters yesterday sought shelter in small harbors and bays, and remained there over night. The same rule which was felt here yesterday is hindering salvage work on the Victoria tugboat Island Planet which is lying in three fathoms of water in Sea Otter Cove, just south of Cape Scott on the West Coast of Vancouver Island.

NIAGARA IS DUE TO-MORROW 4 P.M.

Further word received here this morning from Capt. F. V. Hill of the liner Niagara states that his ship will reach the William Head quarantine station to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock from Sydney, Australia. Yesterday Capt. Hill advised the local office that the ship would reach the quarantine station at noon.

This time will bring the liner alongside the Rithet piers about 5 o'clock. She will proceed to Vancouver later in the evening after leaving passengers and cargo here.

W. M. BAMFORD VISITOR HERE

W. M. "Bully" Bamford, city passenger agent for the Pacific Steamship Company at San Diego, arrived in Victoria yesterday on his annual trip to this city with Mrs. Bamford. While here they are visiting Mr. Bamford's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bamford of Government Street.

Mr. Bamford is well known in Victoria. He was born here and received his early education in the city's schools, before leaving for California. He plans to remain here until Saturday visiting friends and old acquaintances and noting the changes in the city since his last visit. This morning he had a long visit with W. M. Allan, local agent for the Pacific Steamship Company. He and Mrs. Bamford came north to Seattle aboard the liner H. A. Barnt, local representative of the San Francisco Board of Marine Underwriters yesterday passed both these ships and today was being at Chemainus with the freighter Eleanor Christenson.

Seattle, Oct. 8.—Carrying 40,000 tons in Japanese gold, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Hikawa Maru is due here October 5, having sailed from Yokohama last Saturday. The shipment from the Yokohama Specie Bank will be the largest to date. The ship is expected to arrive at the Belleville Street piers at 6 o'clock this afternoon. The Norah has had plenty of fog and uncertain weather this voyage.

YACHT BOUND FOR VICTORIA IS GIVEN AID

English Vessel Lady Royal, Coming Here From England, Aided By Liner Wilhelmina

Reports State That B.C. Mariner Is Aboard Brixton Trawler on Long Trip

Victoria yachtsmen were interested some time ago in a report from London, England, that a retired British Columbia mariner had purchased a Brixton trawler in the United Kingdom and intended sailing across the Atlantic, through the Panama Canal and up the Pacific Ocean to Victoria and Vancouver.

Nothing further was heard of the plan, and as the captain was not well-known in Victoria, the matter was forgotten, although local yachtsmen had wondered from time to time what had happened to the scheme. Most of them thought that it had probably been dropped.

Now comes a message from San Francisco, stating that the ship in question had been reported in mid-ocean in need of aid, which was rendered by the Matsun Liner Wilhelmina. The report from San Francisco follows: "A radio dispatch from the steamship Wilhelmina to the Matsun Navigation Company here yesterday told of succor given to a British yacht in mid-ocean."

The message said the steamship, bound from Honolulu to San Francisco, sighted the yacht Lady Royal, R.T. of the Corinthian Yacht Club of Berkson, England, in latitude 33.20 north, longitude 124.30 west.

The Lady Royal was seventy-one days out from Panama, the message stated, bound for Victoria and Vancouver, and was without provisions and water. The Wilhelmina sent stores aboard and both the passenger liner and the yacht proceeded on their voyage.

CONSTRUCTION OF NEW PIER STARTS SOON

Montreal Awards Contract For C.N.R. Vancouver Pier to Same Company

Vancouver, Oct. 8.—According to advice received by local Canadian National Steamship officials arrangements have been completed in the head offices of the company in Montreal whereby the Northern Construction Company and J. W. Stewart will undertake the reconstruction of a new pier to replace the one destroyed by fire early last August. The above firm was the original contractor for this work.

While the final plans for the new dock are at present in Montreal with the Canadian National Steamship, it is understood that the new pier will closely resemble in appearance the one destroyed by fire. However, there will be some modification in the plans introduced which will eliminate to the utmost the fire hazard. Certain improvements, which in the light of experience are deemed advisable, will be incorporated in the new structure and special precautions taken during the construction period to reduce fire hazards.

The work of clearing the debris from the site of the old pier has been speeded up and will be rushed to completion to enable the Canadian National tri-city services as well as other coastwise sailing to have their berthing quarters as soon as possible.

Freight Ships Dock and Pass During Night

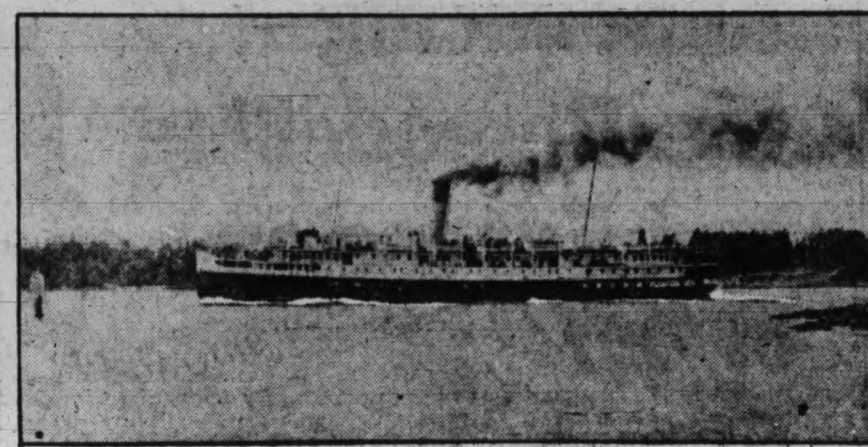

The Kingsley freighter Rochelle docked at the Ogden Point piers yesterday afternoon at 5.30 o'clock and proceeded to Vancouver after discharging a small parcel of cargo here from San Francisco.

The Shiklan Maru completed her cargo of railroad ties at Brentwood Bay late yesterday afternoon and at midnight last night passed Race Rocks on her way to the United Kingdom. The Golden Sea, outbound from Chemainus and other B.C. ports passed the Race at 6.15 o'clock this morning. H. A. Barnt, local representative of the San Francisco Board of Marine Underwriters yesterday passed both these ships and today was being at Chemainus with the freighter Eleanor Christenson.

PRINCESS NORAH DUE FROM COAST

From the west coast of Vancouver Island, as far north as Port Alice, the C.P.R. coast steamer Princess Norah is expected to arrive at the Belleville Street piers at 6 o'clock this afternoon. The Norah has had plenty of fog and uncertain weather this voyage.

Hikawa Maru Is Bringing Gold Cargo

The N.Y.K. motor liner Hikawa Maru is now crossing the Pacific, bound for Victoria and Seattle, and is due here Wednesday with a valuable cargo of Japanese gold and raw silk in her holds. The Hikawa is bringing $4,000,000 in Japanese gold from the Yokohama Specie Bank. The shipment, which is consigned to New York, will be the largest to be received in Seattle, although larger shipments have passed through Victoria before. Making this year the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada passed through Victoria with $10,000,000 in Japanese gold in boxes weighing 103 pounds, and valued at $25,000 a box.

MUNICIPALITY RELIEF PLANS BEING FORMED

Submit Schedules to Provincial Government For Share of Funds

F. E. Harrison Named Federal Agent on Administration of Scheme

With a relief officer named to act for the Federal Government in British Columbia in connection with unemployment aid, municipalities all over the province are preparing their budget to cover the cost of relief work.

F. E. Harrison, of Vancouver, has been chosen as the representative of the Ottawa Government. He will act in liaison with the Provincial Government in administering the relief fund. While Vancouver's unemployment problem will undoubtedly be the most serious during the coming winter and will probably involve the major portion of the $900,000 which this province is to get from the Federal fund, the southern end of Vancouver Island will make only modest requests, it is believed.

Although no announcement has been made as far as the city of Victoria is concerned, the council has considered the plan and the Mayor has been in conference with Premier Tominé on the matter. It is expected the relief plan will be submitted to the provincial government by the end of the month.

Money appropriated for relief in this manner will be spent on public works, it is understood, giving employment to as many men as possible. Little attention has been given to the fact that direct relief for those who cannot be employed or are unemployable.

IN GOOD POSITION

As far as the municipalities of Oak Bay and Esquimalt are concerned, definite requests have not been fixed, but it is understood that the municipalities are in a position to submit a request for a special relief measure. Esquimalt has been seeking the Provincial Government to take over road work, and in the event that being done, further aid would not be necessary.

The questionnaire sent out to municipalities by the Provincial Department of Public Works gives a brief synopsis of the Dominion Unemployment Relief Act, under which $20,000,000 was appropriated by the Federal authorities in aid of winter relief and disbursement of the fund is found available. This shows that all sums remaining unexpended under the scheme by March 31, 1931 will lapse.

TYPES OF WORK

Purposes for which financial assistance will be given from the Federal funds may include "constructing, extending or improving public works and undertakings, railways, highways, bridges, canals, harbors and wharves; assisting in defraying the cost of distribution of products of the field, farm, forest, sea, lake, river and mine; granting aid to provinces and municipalities in any public work or suitable work for the unemployed," and "reimbursing expenditures made by provinces and municipalities in connection with unemployment, and generally any kind of useful and suitable work for the unemployed." The questionnaire indicates.

Municipalities will be asked to state the number of unemployed persons at present in the number for whom employment would be found by any proposal and the period for which the re-employment would be required, the total estimated cost of the work proposed, and the nature and extent of such.

The Oaklands Parent-Teacher Association will hold a five hundred card party in the school auditorium on Friday evening at 8 o'clock, in aid of the school sports fund. Good prizes awarded and light refreshments served.

The regular meeting of the Rotary Club will be held in the Empress Hotel tomorrow afternoon at 12:10 o'clock. The speaker for the occasion will be Jimmy Hunter, who will address the members on the subject, "Highlights of My Seven Months in Europe."

Rev. Canon Hitchcock will be the preacher in St. Mark's Church on Friday evening at 8 o'clock, it being the first of a series of Harvest Festival services to be held concluding on Sunday. After the service there will be a social half-hour in order that Canon and Mrs. Hitchcock may meet their former parishioners. This meeting will be held in the parish hall.

INFLUENCE OF SCIENCE SHOWN ON EDUCATION

Modern Investigation Changing Outlook, Dr. Sedgewick Tells Teachers

The influence of modern scientific investigation on literature and the arts, as well as upon educational systems, was explained by Dr. G. G. Sedgewick of the University of British Columbia, to the Vancouver Island High School Teachers' Association at the Victoria High School yesterday evening. The function took the form of a dinner and was largely attended by teachers from Oak Bay, Saanich, Esquimalt and Victoria.

Dr. Sedgewick spoke on "A Layman's Interest in Science," and showed the way modern scientific investigation was changing the attitude of the public toward life, a change which was reflected in literature, art, music and education. The speaker stated that people could not understand the art of an age unless they understood its science. Turning to the past, he showed how great scientific discoveries as to the nature of the universe, had influenced the literature of the period, and particularly of the period just following.

ENVIRONMENT

Turning to present-day science, he stated this age was particularly interested in looking into the processes of the mind. Modern scientific investigation had shown that in addition to the influence of heredity, much of a person's life was determined by the environment of the first five years, the years for which people are not responsible. The speaker said this idea had either consciously or unconsciously affected most of the modern novel and gave apt illustrations, including the novels of E. H. Young.

Modern scientific investigation had changed public ideas regarding education, said Dr. Sedgewick. Formerly education was something superimposed upon the child entirely without thought. Now it was an attempt to allow for some experiment on the part of the child. This, he pointed out, had had a particularly good effect on discipline, and emphasized his point by contrasting the rote learning of the past with the more modern method of today.

The new president, Miss Ethel MacFarlane, outlined proposed activities of the organization. The association meets on the first Tuesday of each month and the meetings are chiefly devoted to the discussion of current educational matters and modern trends in education.

NATURALIST TO SHOW MOVIES

Arthur Pillsbury to Show South Sea Film Under Jubilee W.A. Auspices

When the famous naturalist and photographer, Arthur Pillsbury, appears at the picture theatre on Friday, October 17, in Shrine Hall, under the auspices of the Jubilee Hospital W.A., he will tell of some of his unusual experiences making moving pictures under the South Seas, where he has spent the past summer. Pillsbury has become famous for his remarkable moving pictures that show the growth of plants, shrubs and flowers. To these he has now added similar pictures of plant and animal life under the sea.

Equipped with ten cameras, 20,000 feet of motion picture film and a number of photographic plates, Pillsbury spent four months making action pictures of submarine life in the tropics, water near Suva. Three of his underwater scenes, designed and built by himself, have been in the process of construction for more than a year and represent a monetary investment of $10,000.

The following ladies will sell tickets to garden lovers and all interested in flowers and deep sea life for Dr. Pillsbury's moving pictures: Tomorrow at 10 o'clock, Mrs. Hermann Robertson and Miss Edith; afternoon, Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Oliver; Friday morning, Mrs. E. H. Griffith and Mrs. McKewen; afternoon, Mrs. Jaffrey and Mrs. Robson; Saturday morning, Mrs. Colman and Mrs. Herbert Pendray; afternoon, Mrs. Phethean; Monday morning, Mrs. Helmerman; afternoon, Miss Dyar and Miss Lettice; Tuesday morning, Mrs. French; afternoon, Mrs. Vaughn Roberts and Mrs. Robertson; Wednesday, Mrs. Unsworth.

SIGHTLESS SEEK SECOND INQUIRY

Blind Broom Factory Workers Not Satisfied With Report of Adam Bell

Dissatisfied with the report of Adam Bell on the operations of the Campbell National Institute for the Blind in Vancouver, nine workers in the broom factory have petitioned the Provincial Secretary for another investigation. Overhead expenses are criticized as too large and attention is drawn to the fact that Merrill C. Robinson, the superintendent, is in receipt of a soldier's pension for blindness in addition to the salary he receives from the institute. An open investigation is asked for. O. G. McGeer, K.C., is acting for the men. The matter is in abeyance pending the return of the Provincial Secretary.

Lieut.-Governor Bruce Endorses Drive to Be Waged Throughout Canada

Premier Bennett Gives Message to Be Shown in All Theatres

Endorsement of Prosperity Week comes today from Lieutenant-Governor Bruce in a message to British Columbia, and from Premier Bennett in a message that will be shown at all theatres in Canada between October 11 and October 18.

Public bodies also are lending all the influence possible to make Prosperity Week one of marked importance. A cordial response from merchants in Victoria to mark Prosperity Week by featuring Canadian-made goods between October 11 and October 18, is reported by Clifford Denham and J. Robertson, who head the local committee.

The Lieutenant-Governor's message reads:

"There is one thing that is stronger than armies: An idea whose time is come."
"He who had the vision to suggest Canadian Prosperity Week must have been also inspired with the truth of Victor Hugo's conception."
"Who is there that has no faith in Canada, in her endless resources, in her vitality, in her youth, in her powers of recuperation? Let us test our strength. Let us concentrate, for one week, in promoting prosperity. Let us remember that success is achieved by overcoming the little things of life, not the great things. Let individual effort speak. Buy home-made goods and accelerate the wheels of industry. Let us be true to ourselves and to our unrivalled Dominion."

PREMIER'S MESSAGE

The message of Premier Bennett is as follows:
"Prosperity is just around the corner and I can only urge you to hasten its arrival by purchasing the products of our own country. We can think of no better way of relieving unemployment. With the wheels of industry turning, the products of our farms finding a ready market and our own natural resources in demand, we can look forward to a future which is the rightful heritage of a young and vigorous nation such as ours."
"Merchants and manufacturers are working hard to drive away this present depression, and I am sure your co-operation can only result in a greater prosperity to Canada."

BISHOP SPEAKS TO UNIVERSITY SCHOOL PUPILS

Gives Address of Cheer at Prize Presentation; 24th Anniversary Observed

The function was marked by the distribution of prizes to those who had taken honors during the previous term. Bishop Schofield urged his hearers to strive for the apparently unattainable, adding that by hatching their dreams to start the year would bring out the best qualities in themselves. As far as education was concerned, the bishop told the student body to "learn everything about something." He advised the young boys to inquire into the "whys and wherefores" of all things which puzzled them, assuring the students that they would never learn unless they made an earnest attempt to investigate.

"Fire Prevention Week" Teaching People To Avoid Losses

Literature, Lectures And Other Means Used To Educate Citizens

Carelessness of Individuals Responsible to a Large Extent for Loss in Property, Forests and Other Resources Caused Through Conflagrations.

Throughout Canada, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, organizations, schools and private individuals are observing "Fire-Prevention Week," a period set aside each year to educate the public in the ways in which conflagrations can be prevented. And people all over the land are paying attention to the campaign aimed to bring this terrible menace under control.

Literature is being circulated, lectures are being given and essay contests are being held to impress upon young and old alike the necessity of preventing unnecessary fires, either in the home, the forest or the wheat field. Scores of fires each year exact their toll from the rich resources of the Dominion. A minority are caused by lightning and cannot be prevented by human agency, but the large preponderance are due to carelessness on the part of individuals.

CARELESSNESS CAUSES FIRES

A cigarette stub carelessly cast aside, a match not properly extinguished, a camp fire left glowing, city rags scattered about, spontaneous combustion and hundreds of other needlessly careless gestures have caused loss that no individual can compensate.

Large tracts of blackened, charred timber, barren fields and hillides all over the country testify to the waste that a needless risk has caused. Scenic spots are marred by the ugly remains of fires, stores and homes and public buildings are gutted by flames that could have been prevented and innumerable other incidents illustrate the vandalism due to lack of thought.

CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE

Very few people would willingly destroy a forest or a grain field. Fewer would run the risk of ruining property and possibly causing loss of life through fire. But every person whose carelessness is responsible for the tremendous devastation caused annually by fire places himself in the class of dangerous incendiaries when he fails to show adequate caution in preventing conflagrations.

Now, while the hunting season is on, sportsmen all over the Dominion are marching through the woods enjoying their favorite pastime. Shall they be forced to abstain from their sport through the killing of game by forest fires?

Farmers have just completed their harvest. Shall they be unable to reap

FIRES COST CANADA $90 PER MINUTE

Last Year $47,500,000
Worth of Property Destroyed in Blazes

In Canada, during the last ten years, fire had destroyed property worth more than $400,000,000 and has killed over 3,500 people while severely injuring thousands of others.

Last year the Canadian fire loss was $47,500,000 or more than $130,000 daily. This amounts to approximately $90 a minute. It would be worth saving. While in European countries the average annual fire loss is less than thirty-three cents per head of population, in Canada the annual loss exceeds $40 per head.

Seventy-five of the 36,000 fires in Canada last year were caused by carelessness, according to statistics. A total of 233 people were killed in these conflagrations.

In future seasons owing to the injury fire does their soil?

ISLAND BEAUTIES THREATENED

Tourists from all over the world have been lured to Victoria and Vancouver Island through its wonderful scenic beauty. Shall this tremendous asset to the city and Island at large be thrown away through the carelessness of a person who fails to put out his matches and cigarette stubs or leaves a camp fire burning?

Throughout the nation people are being instructed in the methods of fire prevention. Victoria is showing great interest in the campaign this week. But the object of the drive is not to fill Canadians with the idea of loss occasioned through fire, but to instill in them the realization that they must observe, throughout their lives, every precaution to avoid conflagrations.

Electric Wiring Should Always Be Done Properly

Remember that the human body is a conductor; do not touch wires, or anything else which may be charged with electricity.

Do not have wiring done by anyone but an expert and careful electrician. Never leave an electric device, even for a moment, without making sure that the current is turned off.

The $2,000,000 cigarette of Jersey City, N.J., is famous. A careless workman smoked it while handling chloride of potash, and four buildings burned.

Ten Commandments of Fire Prevention

- 1.—Have all flues and chimneys properly cleaned before attempting to use them.
- 2.—Look very carefully at the chimney or flue, at the point just above the peak of the roof where the chimney goes through, as the lower part may have settled and the upper portion, being held up by the roof timbers, may have pulled away, leaving an open space or break in the chimney that will permit sparks slipping through into the attic or concealed space.
- 3.—Be sure that all flue holes that are not to be used this year have good metal caps, as innumerable fires are caused by sparks through papering over unused pipe holes in chimneys.
- 4.—Clean the ventilating collars around all flues, removing all lint, cobwebs and dust, leaving nothing in the vent where it goes through.
- 5.—Be careful that the supply of kindling wood is not piled up in the yard in such a manner as to carry fire to your house, in case your neighbor's house should burn.
- 6.—It is best to keep all lightwood, kindlings and boxes in sheds, stables or basements, in orderly piles, and not to have papers or excelsior mixed with it.
- 7.—Extra caution should be used in the handling of gasoline. In the winter months all windows and doors are closed, eliminating the possibility of the air blowing the inflammable vapors away.
- 8.—Never use gasoline inside the house for cleaning, and when compelled to use it for any other purpose do not forget that you are handling a powerful explosive which may endanger your life and property.
- 9.—Remove all dry grass and leaves from your premises before someone carelessly throws a match away.
- 10.—Do not dry clothing and inflammable materials above or near hot stoves.

If you will obey the above commandments, you can prevent many fires and much loss of life and property.

TRY IT! IT IS WORTH WHILE

FIRE LOSS IN B.C. INCREASED BY $1,500,000

Higher Total Was Mainly Because of Unorganized Districts

Fire Marshal Gives Pointed Warnings in Annual Report

According to the annual report of J. A. Thomas, fire marshal for British Columbia, the total value of buildings and contents destroyed by fire during this period was $4,190,100. Five adult persons lost their lives. The increase in losses over the same period in 1929 was approximately $1,500,000. Nearly one million of this increase was contributed by seventeen of our cities, the balance being principally in the unorganized districts where no fire protection is available.

The total loss from fire in 1929 nearly reached that of 1923, which was the peak year since records have been kept by the department.

This increased loss for 1929 was not unexpected. Early in the year warnings were broadcasted by the Dominion Meteorological Service to the effect that owing to the lack of rainfall the fire hazard would be a serious one.

In an endeavor to cope with the situation, early in the year notices were sent to the assistant fire marshals advising them to see that all fire hazards were cleaned up and special care taken to prevent fires starting. Pursuant to this over 50,000 inspections were made and nearly 7,000 orders to remove hazards and improve conditions were issued and enforced. Yet in spite of this our losses have mounted. What they would have been had this action been taken we must leave to the imagination.

OVER MILLION IN VANCOUVER

The chief city of Vancouver shows a loss total of $1,039,730, being an increase of $387,717 over the 1928 loss for Vancouver, Point Grey and South Vancouver combined.

The conditions existing on the Burrard water-front of Vancouver are such that a serious conflagration is long overdue. For the past eight years the attention of council and citizens generally has been called to the serious hazards existing here and the entirely inadequate fire protection available.

Surveys have been made, public meetings held, and wide publicity given by the press of the city. A committee was appointed by the president of the Board of Trade, but at the time of writing there have been no results.

The chief of the fire department put an item for fire-boats in his 1930 estimates, but it was struck out before it reached the council. When the conflagration happens it will probably involve the major portion of the Water Street wholesale district. I presume it will be referred to as an act of God.

A fire in this city which involved a loss of life is worthy of note. It occurred in an industrial plant. Our investigation showed that it was caused by a defective electrical heating apparatus which had been installed in an oven used for baking enamel. This was installed without the knowledge or consent of the city officials, and, as above stated, the resultant fire caused the death of a young man employee of the company. For this act the persons responsible were convicted and fined $10. An amendment to the Fire Marshal Act passed last session provides an adequate penalty for this sort of thing, which has been altogether too common in the past. In the future the law will be strictly enforced.

attribute their increased fire losses to an act of God. Our investigations, however, reveal that they are usually from another source. In one city, the stream which was the only source of supply to their reservoir was, owing to these conditions the elderly laborer, who was glorified with the title of "foreman of the waterworks," decided to drain the reservoir and clean it. This was done. At this time a fire occurred. The only water available was in the pipes and a twenty-five-gallon chemical tank. The result, a conflagration and a property loss of $157,000. To make the situation more interesting, the deputy fire marshal, while investigating the fire, made an inspection of what was left of the city and reported over seventy serious fire hazards consisting of highly inflammable trash located in dilapidated buildings and rear yards. While this condition existed the local assistant fire marshal, whose duty under the act is to attend to just such matters as this, was busy in the fire-hall cleaning paint off an old wagon.

Another case is that of a city which has been carrying on a very laudable campaign to attract industries and with very considerable success. For years the fire chief has been asking for larger water-mains and better equipment for the protection from fire. In this city during 1929 four major fires occurred. Two were industrial plants, one a school, and in the other several public buildings were involved. The total loss for the four fires was $575,000. Their fire loss for the year increased from $164,000 in 1928 to $575,000 in 1929. They have since purchased a pumping-engine, but the pipe for the enlarged water-mains is still piled in the city yards.

OVER MILLION IN VANCOUVER

The chief city of Vancouver shows a loss total of $1,039,730, being an increase of $387,717 over the 1928 loss for Vancouver, Point Grey and South Vancouver combined.

The conditions existing on the Burrard water-front of Vancouver are such that a serious conflagration is long overdue. For the past eight years the attention of council and citizens generally has been called to the serious hazards existing here and the entirely inadequate fire protection available.

Surveys have been made, public meetings held, and wide publicity given by the press of the city. A committee was appointed by the president of the Board of Trade, but at the time of writing there have been no results.

The chief of the fire department put an item for fire-boats in his 1930 estimates, but it was struck out before it reached the council. When the conflagration happens it will probably involve the major portion of the Water Street wholesale district. I presume it will be referred to as an act of God.

A fire in this city which involved a loss of life is worthy of note. It occurred in an industrial plant. Our investigation showed that it was caused by a defective electrical heating apparatus which had been installed in an oven used for baking enamel. This was installed without the knowledge or consent of the city officials, and, as above stated, the resultant fire caused the death of a young man employee of the company. For this act the persons responsible were convicted and fined $10. An amendment to the Fire Marshal Act passed last session provides an adequate penalty for this sort of thing, which has been altogether too common in the past. In the future the law will be strictly enforced.

Children's Aid Enlisted To Minimize Great Loss By Fire

Fire Chief Will Test Alarms and See Fire Drill In Every School

Will See How Rapidly School is Emptied When Alarm is Sounded; Scholars Will Write Essays on Fire Prevention.

The Victoria fire chief, accompanied by members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, is visiting the schools of the city this week with a view of enlisting the aid of the pupils in fighting the fire menace.

Every school in the city and adjacent municipalities will be visited during the week. The fire chief will be accompanied at each school so that the fire chief may check up as to how rapidly the school is emptied and note the carelessness displayed by the teachers and scholars as they respond to the emergency fire call. The chief will speak a few words to the pupils and the representative of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will deliver a five minutes address. A supply of literature dealing with fire prevention to enable the pupils to prepare their essays on fire prevention will be left with the principal of each school.

488 ALARMS
According to the records of the fire department, they responded to no less than 488 alarms during the year of 1929, any one of which, states the fire chief, might have resulted in a serious conflagration. The majority of the calls were for grass and chimney fires, and, as in other years, no less than forty-four false alarms were included in this number. According to the records a loss of $39,897.85 resulted through ninety-six of the alarms responded to, this being part of Canada's fire loss of $47,500,000 for the year 1929.

As a fire preventive measure the fire department made 8,241 inspections during the year, and in accordance with their instructions a large number of hazards which might have resulted in serious fires were removed.

Fire prevention is a community problem. Fire causes suffering, want and unemployment; it interrupts business and destroys property and increases living costs, therefore fire prevention is good citizenship.

Summed up, a number of these can be classified under the section called "carelessness," and therefore preventable.

Fire-prevention Good Citizenship; Causes For Conflagrations Shown

As an incentive to arouse an interest in "Fire Prevention Week" Fire Marshall J. A. Thomas allotted certain prizes amongst the schools for the best essay on fire prevention, and to the stores for the best display on the subject. Reviewing his report for last year, the need of education along these lines is very apparent, as over 2,326 fires occurred in the province involving a property loss of $4,190,000.

In the province it was found that there were several fires in industrial plants which, under ordinary conditions, employ a large number of wage-earners. This, of course, carries with it a serious economic loss in wages, profits and business that can only be estimated.

During the year 1,260 homes were either partially or completely destroyed, valued with the contents at over $847,664. In the case of the homes, government records show that not more than sixty per cent of this loss is covered by insurance. There were also five fatalities, four of which occurred in dwellings. In view of these facts, it would appear the burden of our excessive fire loss rests most heavily on those who can least afford it, the wage earner and small home owner.

CAUSES OF FIRE
Many of these could have been prevented as it is evident by the list of principal causes, some of which were: Defective chimneys, 100; stove or stove-pipe insufficiently protected, 92; defective stove or stove-pipe, 33; smokers' carelessness, 188; match carelessness, 44; ashes against wood, 17; defective wiring, 8; electrical appliances, 52; clothes too near stove or stove-pipe, 30; matches with children, 26; gasoline carelessness, 6; grease on stove, 12; lamp upset, 12; live coals from fire-places and stoves, 25; sparks from chimneys, 193; sparks from fire places, 106; thawing pipes, 22.

These figures refer only to losses, but a casual reading will not show the whole story, as considerable benefit is derived from the organized fire-prevention work that has been carried on throughout the province. During the years 1929, 6,832 inspections were made and 36,954 hazards to life and property were found and orders issued to remove them.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP

Fire prevention is therefore a community problem. Fire causes suffering, want and unemployment, it interrupts business, destroys property and increases living costs, therefore fire prevention is good citizenship.

Citizens are urged to co-operate with the Victoria and District Fire Agents' Association and to keep the "Fire Prevention" idea in their minds all the year, and give the movement your earnest support and assistance.

Do your share to make employment by phoning The Employment Service of Canada up-see you a man-to help clean up your premises and thereby remove fire hazards.

Do you make periodical inspection of your premises to make sure that attic, basement, store-rooms and closets are in order?

"Don'ts" for Fire Prevention

DON'T allow children to play with matches.
DON'T leave everything to the landlord; inspect your own house from cellar to garret.
DON'T throw away lighted matches, cigars or cigarettes.
DON'T go into dark closets, bedrooms or cellars, using matches or candles to light your way.
DON'T use coal oil, benzine or naphtha in lighting fires, or to quicken a slow fire—it may result in death.
DON'T use gasoline or benzine to clean clothing near an open flame, light or fire.
DON'T use alcohol lamps, especially if made of glass; they often break and the fluid is ignited at once.
DON'T fill any lamp with gasoline or coal oil while the lamp is lighted.
Keep the burners of all oil lamps thoroughly clean.
DON'T fill oil lamps after dark or within fifteen feet of lights or fire.
DON'T put ashes in wooden boxes or barrels. Keep ashes away from boards.
DON'T use oils with a low flash point.
DON'T accumulate rubbish in premises, cellars or workshops. While awaiting removal, keep such material in covered metal-lined receptacles.

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

By Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.
Winnipeg, Oct. 8.—Wheat—The very heavy market, while favoring the buyer, was nervous and erratic with somewhat narrow range of less than two cents, with the trade largely local in character, and the volume comparatively small and generally consisting of features.

On one or two occasions there was some buying by New York interests which was understood to be purely investment and probably based on Premier Bennett's address to the Imperial Conference at London, and which advanced prices about one cent over the previous close, but these upturns were only used to sell more wheat on, and the bulges were hard to hold. However, on the dips below the previous close there was fair investment buying, and with small offerings the market was able to recover.

Export business was again very small and unimportant, being confined to a few old loads. There was no special feature to the demand for cash wheat. Buyers were not keen, and the market was not offering freely. Some two northern sold at 1/4 better, but spreads were mostly unchanged. Flour trade, both domestic and export, is rather quiet.

Liverpool closed 1/4 to 1/2 higher, while Buenos Aires was 1/4 higher at midday, with Argentina favorably reported clear and cold. Broomhall reported the foreign demand as very ordinary, with Canadian wheat pressing. While Russia continues to offer and ship wheat freely.

Heavy rains fell in eastern Australia yesterday and conditions there are now very favorable. Rains were more or less general in Western Canada, with the weather unsettled, while further south were received in winter wheat territory.

The situation still appears to be weak, but prices are low, and undoubtedly declines will be stubbornly contested. We therefore advise purchases on soft spots only for moderate profits.

Winnipeg futures closed on the bottom, showing loss of 1/4 to 1/2 from last night.

Coarse grains—These markets were steady, but closed fractionally lower. Trade volume was very light to-day, but there is very little doing in the cash markets, with no short sales or inquiry, and only the odd car passing into domestic consumptive channels.

Flax—Little foreign, although trade was dull.

Liverpool due 1/4 to 1/2 lower, based on Winnipeg.

By Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.
Chicago, Oct. 8.—Wheat—Business at Liverpool and the security market brought lower prices to-day. Winnipeg early was relatively firm, but worked lower later. Foreign news showed little change in conditions. Liverpool closed 1/4 to 1/2 lower.

Cash wheat continued in good demand with sales of 30,000 bushels and a firm basis. Primary receipts were 980,000 bushels, vs. 1,250,000 bushels and receipts were about 300,000 bushels less than the primary shipments, showing a decidedly healthy situation. Clearances for the day were 207,000 bushels wheat and flour. Local receipts were light.

Weather conditions in this country and abroad are favorable. Australia apparently having had pretty general precipitation, while European conditions are said to be good. Minneapolis stocks gained 90,000 bushels for four days.

The flour trade continues good, with mills making excellent sales, according to The Northwestern Miller, who said buyers came into the market whenever wheat showed any firmness. With feeding of wheat to stock and poultry continuing heavy, think prices are too far below intrinsic value. Justify anything but a bullish attitude at this time.

Corn: There was an excellent demand for cash corn, with sales reported of 500,000 bushels, and as soon as wheat turned firm after the early decline, corn advanced sharply, but sold off late in the trade when wheat turned weak.

High prices continued to be paid for cash corn, and it is also notable that cash prices are strong, while bran prices have worked sharply higher the past week. Receipts are moderate here and in the west, and there is no pressure to sell from the country. Food grains and hay are too high and the movement too small to encourage selling. Favor buying side on the setbacks.

Oats: Manitoba's relatively firm tone with not much pressure. Cash demand was fair and offerings light. Position of oats looks strong.

Rye: No change in the situation was indicated, but prices are selling at extremely low levels.

GRAIN MARKETS SLP AGAIN ON GENERAL STOCK WEAKNESS

Wheat prices slipped to-day in sympathy with the setback in the stock markets.

At the close Winnipeg wheat was down 1 1/2 cents a bushel from yesterday's levels and Chicago wheat was down 1 cent. Corn down 1 cent.

"Weakness in New York stocks and favorable weather conditions in Argentina and Australia have proved too much of a handicap for the bulls in wheat," The Chicago Tribune to-day says.

The continued lack of foreign demand for North American wheat, with reports that Russia had several cargoes of unsold wheat at United Kingdom ports and was offering at low prices, were factors that inclined bulls to take the selling side.

"One of the large local traders expressed the opinion that there was too much wheat in the world provided Argentina and Australia raised good crops and with the rains in the last few days, prospects there have improved, he said. Asked as to corn, he expressed himself as bullish."

Monday, Oct. 13, will be a holiday on the Chicago Board of Trade and a number of other exchanges will also be closed on that day.

"There is confidence in the value of wheat at this price, but with surrounding conditions unsettled, traders are reluctant to take hold," The Journal of Commerce to-day says. "If the market could be independent of these conditions, it is generally believed the price trend would be upward."

Winnipeg, Oct. 8.—Canadian exports from July 1 total 82,511,000 bushels, as compared with 46,402,000 for the same period a year ago.

TO-DAY'S REPORTS ON CALGARY OILS

By Special Service of Miller, Court & Co. Victoria Office

Eastcrest No. 2. "A" produced 500 barrels to-day, still showing a tendency to increase," said Harvey S. Price, managing director, last night. Operators hope to hook up the second separator sometime to-day, he added.

Eastcrest No. 1 was making about fifty barrels a day.

Denial of rumors that A.P.C. is in financial straits was issued yesterday by Dr. A. B. Singleton, president of the company.

"It must be remembered," he said, "that we still hold more than 100,000 shares of Home Oil stock, which with other assets have a value of nearly $500,000."

Miracle was still drilling last night in its interesting test in the Mercury area of southern Turner Valley. The well was nearly 400 feet in the limestone at 5,566 feet. A check of the log indicated the rotary drill was within 15 seconds of the gas zone of which about 100 feet has been drilled. The first soft time belt was about 100 feet thick.

Commencement of two wells in southern Turner Valley was announced by J. R. McLeod, production manager of Imperial Oil, last night. The operations are southwest Peto No. 2 and Mayland No. 5. At present cellars are being dug at the new locations. Mr. McLeod stated the new southwest Peto well is located west of the company's No. 1 producer and in the same quarter section. It was probable that drilling would be started in about three weeks.

The Mayland, located on the company's large tract of proven property in the southern part of the field, may not start drilling until Mayland No. 3 reaches the limestone or penetrates it for some distance. At last report, this operation was drilling at a rate of 5,700 feet and was thought to be close to the lime.

Operations have been resumed at Mercury No. 1, southern Turner Valley, according to field officials. The well last night was below the Dalhousie sands at 5,566 feet. It was expected that casing would be run at No. 2 sometime to-day. This well is more than 1,900 feet down.

No. 5 was worked on casing. No. 2 and No. 3 were producing 50 and 220 barrels a day, respectively.

Reports from Lethbridge indicate that Anglo Western Oil Company has the derrick erected for its first southern Alberta well and is rigging up to spud in sometime this week. This corporation, financed in England, has selected the Warner field, twenty miles south and east of Lethbridge, for its first derrick well. It is said the company is prepared to go 5,000 feet, if necessary in order to thoroughly test the structure.

Baltac-J. H. McLeod, production manager of Imperial Oil, Saturday night declined to comment on field reports that Baltac had in the past few days substantially increased its production after a relatively small yield for the first few months of its career.

This well, located in the northwest corner of the famous section No. 30 area of Turner Valley, was a small producer after being shut with nitro glycerine and later increased slowly to seventy barrels daily. In the last three days, it was reported here, this yield suddenly jumped to more than 150 barrels daily.

Plans to commence drilling Vanalta No. 4 on the company's 320 acre lease in Red Coules, and signing of an agreement for sale of production to Imperial Oil Company, are revealed in the annual statement of Vanalta Oil Limited. Shareholders will hold their annual meeting October 27 in Vancouver.

LAZBS GOING MINES AND OILS IN WITH BEARS UNABLE TO HOLD MONTREAL SAYS IN VANCOUVER

Pessimism Rampant and Every Constructive Factor Ignored, It Declares

Weakness in Big Markets in East Again Effects Course of Western Values

Traders and Investors Nervous and Are Disposing of Their Securities

Montreal, Oct. 8.—Prices drifted lower this afternoon on Montreal Stock Exchange, most issues closing with losses fractionally greater than those sustained during the morning. The day's trading was quiet with no very severe declines registered.

Leading the losers was Brazilian Traction, which closed near its day's low at 27 1/2, down over a point. Dominion Bridge, National Steel Car, Montreal Power and Shawinigan were each off about a point.

Montreal, Oct. 8.—The speculative public, that is, those who buy on tip and hunches, and in New York are referred to as "lambos" are either over-optimistic or over-pessimistic, the latter, the latter is the case, and every constructive factor is disregarded. Pessimism is rampant and many are taking the short side to get into line for the inevitable "abeyance."

About the main reason for the talk of depression is the fact that many publications have pointed out that the expected improvement in autumn business did not materialize and the seasonal improvement, which always occurs in the fall months, failed to survive. What was not pointed out was that the majority of these companies refer to American industry, and that while conditions in Canada are not yet normal, a slight improvement in business has taken place.

The fall in commodity prices has been an important consideration in the sale of securities. Traders and investors have become extremely nervous and are disposing of holdings. A study by some of the leading financiers and economists on the continent leads one to believe that commodities are very close to bottom and that instead of disposing of investment holdings, current levels warrant their purchase, as an improvement is bound to set in sooner or later.

REFLECT WALL STREET

The Canadian stock markets, for the past few years, have followed closely in the footsteps of New York, and the current weakness is only a reflection of Wall Street, with the local boards taking their cue from the bigger one. There has been no wild outbreaks of selling, but the markets are showing a heavy pressure to drop the averages to the lowest for the current year. Lower prices, but as yet no sign of a revival in buying are to be seen. During the next few days many millions of dollars will be paid to Canadian investors in dividends for the third quarter of the calendar year, and it is possible this will create a better demand for high-grade industrial securities. Bond prices have been steadily advancing and the low yield from investments of this character may be the means of switching a greater portion of the funds for reinvestment into the stock market.

MONEY RATES PSYCHOLOGY

The manner in which factors can be turned into a bullish or a bearish argument is evident from the following. In the big bull market of 1929, call money had risen to as high as twenty per cent and traders were hoping that the rate would fall, so as to enable the bull to buy more. At the present time, call money in Wall Street is one and a half per cent, and a wide range of money for market purposes. In fact, in some quarters, it is being construed as being a sign of a revival in business. It only goes to show how opinions change from time to time, without much rhyme or reason.

DOWN IN SUB-BASEMENT

The following is a list of stocks listed on the Montreal Stock Exchange that are currently selling below their levels reached on November 13, 1929, when the majority of Canadian securities were at their peak.

WHITNEY LETTER

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)

New York, Oct. 8.—Whitney "Market Specialist" says to-day:

UNIMPORTANT RALLIES

"Yesterday's session succeeded in bringing forth the moderate rally anticipated, even though it used the closing hours, rather than noon time, to do it. As previously stated, however, I think you should attach little importance to what you saw yesterday, and for that matter, what little additional rally may be seen to-day, except to the extent that they provide a stepping-off place for long stocks, which, I believe, will be replaced, lower before the general market liquidation has run its course.

"I believe the way to treat what rallies you get here is to consider them purely in the light of a temporary let-up in the down trend and not as a reversal of it.

"The reason for attaching little importance to any of these rallying movements is simply that the market appears to have coming to it some more of the real liquidation which has brought it down in the last week or so, with this liquidation still to appear in the "blue chip" type of stocks. It has been pointed out that there are four possible sources of liquidation in this group, and I believe that what will happen is that for a few days one source will be accountable for the liquidation, with one of the other sources replacing it when it temporarily lets up.

"In the aggregate, this represents rather steady pressure, and until such time as the liquidation is a whole lot more complete than it is now, do not think you can look for the pressure on this group to be lifted, nor, in turn, this group's pressure on the general market to show any change. In other words, I only repeat the previously expressed thought that there is little in the present situation upon which to build higher prices and a good deal of ammunition for lower.

"The steel tonnage report on Friday will make rather poor reading if it shows around 200,000 to 225,000 tons reduction. We are also on the threshold of third quarter reports, which will also make poor reading. In a market which had the background of extensive buying, such factors would be of momentary importance only, but it should be borne in mind that we have been, and still are, in a phase of large-scale liquidation. While that liquidation is being conducted in a most orderly manner, and is being preceded from having too much market effect at any one time, I do not think we can look for its culmination as yet, nor look for anything in the nature of a rally which will really go back over any great amount of ground until lower prices are seen."

PRICES SHOW FEW CHANGES

California Fruit Arrives; Cranberries and Nuts Proclaim Christmas

Prices on the wholesale fruit and vegetable market show few changes. Several shipments arrived yesterday and to-day. California lemons and oranges are selling well, and white Malaga grapes from the same region (the first of the season), are also on the market.

Christmas is coming. Cranberries which supply the sauce for the Christmas turkey, are now selling at 22 cents a pound. Almonds from far-away Persia in Spain, and other nuts that grace the Christmas table, are also on the market.

20th Century Trust Earnings Accumulate

The accumulations on the twenty-nine underlying stocks of 20th Century Trust since the last coupon payment date, which was September 1, is in excess of thirty-one cents per 20th Century share applicable to the next coupon payment, according to the 20th Century Depositor Corporation, sponsors for the trust.

Each share of the trust carries thirty-cent coupons which are payable semi-annually. The certificates are issued by the Bank of America N.A. of New York. The trust has a unique feature in that each of the twenty-nine underlying stocks of the trust individually is rated "A" or "Aa" by Moody's Investors' Service. The shares are 1-1000 participating, interest in a unit consisting of four utilities, thirteen industrials, four oils and eight railroads.

Standard Gas and Electric Company net after expenses and taxes for twelve months ended August 31, 1929, 164,334,334 against 173,535,109 in previous twelve months.

Carry Caution Into Finance

The investor who accepts financial rumors for facts and acts upon them is usually a cautious man in other things. In a legal question he seeks the advice of a solicitor who knows the law. For medical counsel he consults his physician. Much anxiety and considerable loss could be prevented if every person who has money to invest would get expert analysis of every security offered before he decides on an investment. It matters not whether the sum is a few dollars or as many thousands.

Gillette Safety Razor Collapses Nearly Nine Points to 44 3/4

U.S. Steel Common Makes New Low; Allied Chemical Breaks Ten Points

New York, Oct. 8 (Branson, Brown).—At the close of the market this afternoon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials stood at 200.56, off 3.06 points for the day; for 20 rails at 119.70, off 0.50 points, and for 20 utilities at 73.93, off 0.60 points.

Sales for the day totaled 2,061,200 shares.

After a few isolated upturns in the initial dealings, the market displayed further sensitiveness and yielding to selling.

In the afternoon, a somewhat unfavorable Iron Age report further renewed liquidation. U.S. Steel common slumped to a new low for the year at 150 1/4. Steel ingot production in the week ended last Monday was estimated at 56 1/2 per cent of capacity, against 60 per cent the preceding week, with U.S. Steel Corporation figures at about 61 and 65 per cent for the respective periods.

Chrysler Motor slumped to a new low for the year at 19 1/4.

Gillette Safety Razor took a header and crashed from 53 1/4 to a new low at 44 3/4.

Westinghouse Electric fell from 125 1/4 to a new low at 119.

Bethlehem Steel broke 3 1/4 points to a new low at 75 1/4.

Allied Chemical tumbled from 222 to 217 1/4.

National Cash Register made a new low at 26 1/4.

One favorable feature in the news to-day was the report that the Bridgeport, Conn., portable typewriter plant and the Underwood plant had resumed full time operations this week, as a result of a large increase in domestic and foreign orders for portable machines.

COCA COLA SALES HOLD UP

General depression in business during current year operations of Coca Cola are increasing at a satisfactory rate. Sales for this year are estimated at 7 per cent, ahead of the same period of 1929, while net earnings show an increase of approximately 10 per cent, over a year ago.

DECLINE ORDERS

Logan and Bryan to-day say: "There are grounds for believing that if any further declines are in store for the market, they probably will be orderly and of limited range. On this basis it seems more logical to 60 cents a share, than to 50 cents."

Nash Motors shows a net income of $1,772,770 for the quarter ended August 31 after depreciation, federal taxes and after charging out expenses incurred in preparation of complete new line of automobiles, equal to 60 cents a share on 2,730,000 no par shares, against $1,932,896, or 71 cents a share in the preceding quarter, and $1,068,658, or 39 cents a share in the quarter of 1929.

Net for nine months ended August 31 was $5,492,678, equal to 2.01 a share, against $1,810,857 or 5.05 a share in the period of 1929. Cash and government securities on August 31 amounted to $39,483,952, against $42,511,405 on November 30, 1929, the close of the previous fiscal year.

Ford world production of cars and trucks in September, 97,885 against 99,152 in August and 161,905 in September, 1929.

Railroads—A recommendation of the Reading Railway be permitted to continue as an independent system was the outstanding question reached by Dr. Howard C. Kidd, transportation expert named by the Public Service Commission to study from the Pennsylvania Railroad's proposed consolidation of the nation's railroads as tentatively grouped by the Interstate Commerce Commission under the plan of the Federal Commerce field.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey are among the lines given to the Baltimore and Ohio. The strong position of the Reading in the intermediate field for carrying bituminous and its entrenched situation in one of the best industrial sections of the State, Dr. Kidd concluded, should allow it to continue as an independent road. Should consummation of the Federal Commission's plan of consolidation eventually be consummated, especially through the possibility of contact with friendly connecting roads, Dr. Kidd advised that the line then be given to all north-east trunk lines for joint operation.

Hornblower and Weeks—Aside from lightning trading commitments, the Reading's operations as an independent, especially through the possibility of contact with friendly connecting roads, Dr. Kidd advised that the line then be given to all north-east trunk lines for joint operation.

Dorothy Dix

The Professional Lover, the Caveman, the Perpetual Sweetie; These Are Bad, but the Sagar Papa, Cheap Skate and the Married Man Are Worse, and Sophisticated Love Is Worst of All!

THESE are many men, daughter, and each has a different line with women. Consider their ways and their methods. Lend them your ears, for it is pleasant to a woman to listen to soft talk, but let not their words linger in your heart.

There is, to begin with, what might be called the professional lover, the man who feels that the way to entertain a woman is to make love to her, as you shake a rattle to amuse a baby. His line is a little shopworn with much use, but it listens good to a young girl who is taking her first draught of the intoxicating discovery that she has an allure for men.

The professional lover will tell you what wonderful eyes you have and how different you are from every other woman in the world and how the instant he saw you he knew you were his predestined mate and the one woman he had spent years searching the world for. He has said the same thing to so many women that he has acquired a technique that is convincing to the novice, but it is all hot air, daughter. It means nothing, so put no faith in the man who is a glib love-maker. Nibble at the bonbons of sweet words, but never try to make a meal of them.

Then there is the youth who pulls the caveman stuff. He believes in treating 'em rough. He will woo you with a club and drag you around by the hair of your head to the places he wants to go. He will order you about as if you were a slave and forbid you to do this or to do that, and his long suit will be jealousy.

He will make engagements just to break them and keep you waiting on the anxious seat. He will neglect you and expect you to feel honored when he comes back again. He will quarrel with you and expect you to humble yourself and apologize for the things he has done. He will drive all other men away from you without the slightest intention of marrying you himself.

Suppress the primitive instinct in you, daughter, that makes a woman crave to be dominated, because it isn't strong enough to make you enjoy a lifetime of being trampled upon.

Then there is what you might call the perpetual sweetie. He is the chap who holds the endurance love-making record. He courts and courts but never names the wedding day. He will monopolize a pretty girl for years and years and discourse to her by the hour about how he adores her and how he couldn't live without her and about how she is just half his soul, but he will never quite get to the point of popping the question.

Because a man camps up your parlor chairs is no indication of his affection, daughter. Likely as not it merely indicates that he finds your house a pleasant, free club in which to spend his evenings. Or peradventure he likes your mother's cooking. Pay no attention to a man's love-making until he backs it up with an offer to assume your board bill and shopping ticket for life.

Then there is the sugar papa, who assumes that every girl is for sale and can be bought with presents. Generally he is much older than the girl and rather paunchy and baldheaded, but he offsets his disabilities by joyrides and feeds and theatre tickets and silk stockings and georgette lingerie.

Beware of the man, daughter, who makes love with his pocketbook. There is nothing for nothing in this wicked old world and the price of the sugar papa's love-making comes high.

In sharp distinction to him is the cheap skate, the boy who expects a girl to pay for 50 cents' worth of attention with 45 worth of petting. If he takes you to the movies, or buys you a drink of soda water, or drives you around the block in his flivver, he doesn't consider that he has had his money's worth in the pleasure of your society. You have to come across with a bunch of kisses.

Unless you are ready to throw yourself on the bargain counter, daughter, pass up the power. He's such a piker he isn't worth wasting your time over.

Then there is the married man. His approach is a sympathetic appeal. He is always married to a woman who doesn't understand him or who has got old and fat or who is cold or who is absorbed in the children or something. Anyway, he is very sad and unhappy, though he doesn't look it. And though he has nobly resolved not to get a divorce, the only way he can keep his life from being wrecked is by having a pretty young girl console him with her kisses and caresses and step out with him behind his wife's back.

Harden your heart to this line of sales talk, daughter. You don't hold the office of public comforter, and a girl listens to a married man's hard-luck story at her peril.

Then there is the sophisticated lover. He breaks down a girl's moral resistance by trying to make her believe that it is "modern" to drink and neck and "live your own life," and that virtue and modesty are old-fashioned, and that marriage is a relic of the dark ages.

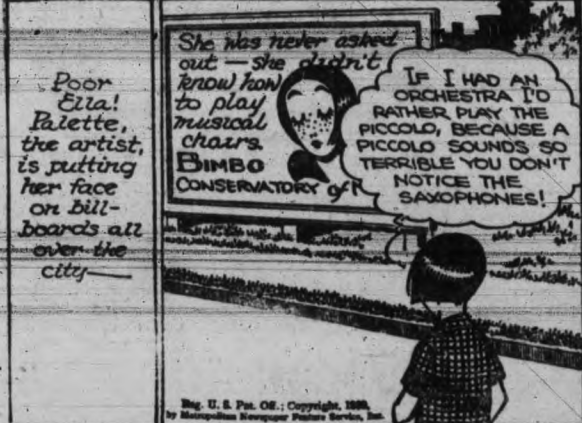

Beware of that man, daughter, as you would of the plague, for he bodes you no good, as they used to say in the old melodramas.

The love game is a great game, daughter, but don't play it with strangers. And keep a wary eye on your opponent.

GIANT ACTOR IN CHANEY FEATURE AT THE COLISEUM

Ivan Linow, the giant in 'The Unholy Three,' Lon Chaney's first Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer talkie, now playing at the Coliseum Theatre, is so large that he had an automobile specially built for him. And Harry Earles, the midge in the picture, drives a full sized automobile equipped with special driver's seat, pedals and steering wheel.

JOAN CRAWFORD IS LEADING LADY IN DOMINION PICTURE

Joan Crawford took the first dancing lessons of her life when she made 'Our Blushing Brides,' her new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle which will close to-day at the Dominion Theatre. 'America's dancing daughter' studied under Mme. Albertina Rasch for her part in the spectacular ballet scenes, devoting six weeks to the strenuous (terpischorean) calisthenics for the dance number. Although Joan has been noted as a dancer ever since she

CLEVER COMEDIAN AT THE CAPITOL IN NEW FEATURE

Some persons support musical comedies, they are called 'Angels'; others support prize fights, they are called promoters; some support doctors, and one of the most famous of these is Joe E. Brown. Brown estimates that if the doctor's bills he has paid during his twenty years on the stage, twenty years spent in being funny by throwing himself from the stage to the orchestra piano for a continuous run of fourteen months, Tuesdays and Saturdays matinees, would be placed one on top of each other and let down to the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean it would have saved him a great amount of money.
During the filming of 'Top Speed,' First National's musical comedy coming to a close to-night at the Capitol Theatre, Joe E. Brown had many injuries to prove that being funny was no fun at all.

FAVORITE TRENCH GAMES ARE SHOWN IN 'JOURNEY'S END'

Cheering cockroaches over the line is a favorite indoor dug-out sport in 'Journey's End,' the affixy Gainsborough all-talking version of R. C. Sheriff's famous war play coming next week to the Playhouse Theatre.
Captain Hardy, retiring from the front line after six days up, tells the rules to Lieutenant Osborne, of the company taking over.
'You start 'em in line. On the word 'Go' you dig your cockroach in the ribs and steer him with a match across the table. If you want to get the best pace out of a cockroach, dip it in whisky.'
Many delightful comedy bits are promised in 'Journey's End,' which is interpreted on the screen by Colin Clive, Ian MacLaren, David Manners, Anthony Bushell, Billy Bevan and others, James Whale directed.

BERT ROACH HAS COMIC ROLE WITH COLUMBIA CAST

Bert Roach, who has the comedy role in 'The Time, the Place and the Girl,' Warner Bros.' screen version of Hough, Adams and Howard's famous comedy, which is now playing at the Columbia Theatre, started in pictures sixteen years ago at an extra at Universal. For four years previously he had been on the stage, beginning with a role with Charles Frohman in 'The Arcadians.' He was born in Washington, D.C., on August 31, 1891, and educated in the public schools there. His theatrical experience includes singing and acting in vaudeville, stock and cabarets. He had important roles in 'Excuse Me,' 'Tin Hats,' 'The Crowd' and 'The Last Warning.'
Roach is married. His favorite sport is golf.

TWO PICTURES ARE SHOWING THIS WEEK AT THE PLAYHOUSE

Dixie Lee again adds her grace and charm to the role of a beautiful co-ed in the Fox Movietone all-singing and dancing production 'Cheer Up and Smile,' now showing at the Playhouse Theatre. Admirers of this dainty little Tennessee girl will enjoy her delineation of a character similar to the one she played in the musical hit, 'Good News.' Featured with Arthur Lake and Olga Baclanova, the girl has abundant opportunity to sing and dance as a campus beauty and sweetheart of a young collegian.
Also on the same programme is 'Troopers Three.'

Paper Asserts Dirigible Not Properly Tested

Bedford, England, Oct. 8.—With the caption, 'Indecent,' an editorial appearing in The Bedford Record yesterday asserted that the lives of so many residents of this region, need not and ought not to have happened.

The paper declared the airship was sent on her long hazardous flight before having been properly tested, with one engine out of order, just after she had shown a tendency to dip at the nose and with weather conditions unfavorable to the flight.
'Our brave men were sacrificed to improvidence,' not even to improvisation,' concludes the article. 'Who did it?'

The Record says first accounts of the disaster 'confirm in cruel fashion the worst forebodings of many who watched with anxious interest the all too rapid execution of her alterations her go.'

CONVERSATION

"Language may be considered the chief distinctive mark of humanity."
—ENCYCLOPEDIA BRITANNICA

HENRY DAVID THOREAU is reported to have said that he would rather walk fifteen miles than write a letter: suggesting that in the letter lurked a thousand possibilities of being misunderstood, or understood too well!

Think of the hours spent and the reams of paper used to explain the simplest proposition. Except from a trained hand, one cannot always see on the paper the smile, the good-fellowship, the brotherly intention . . . the telephone, however, transmits the chuckle, the tone of displeasure, the forgiving voice, the firm intent. At once the reaction on the part of the listener at the other end of the wire can be detected, and the sails of conversation be trimmed, as necessary, to meet an unfavourable, or propitious, reply. The telephone stands today at the head of humanizing agencies.
